Planning Committee To Conduct Public Hearing Wednesday

Will Seek Views on Big Problems Facing City; Zoning Proposal, Through Street Plan to Council

The Citizen's Planning Committee, working in co-operation with Hare and Hare city planners will have a busy week ahead of them as they prepare to submit two plans to the city council Tuesday night and then to hold an open session Wednesday night in the Council Chamber for the public on five new plans to be considered.

The Wednesday night session is to be held expressly for the public to attend, so they may hear the proposals, suggest their own opinions and make their own proposals. S. J. Timbrious, the chairman of the committee said, "The commission feels these subjects are of wide importance to Sedalia. The public will be invited Wednesday night for the questions and opinions they have."

The two proposals the commission has completed, and which will be submitted to the council Tuesday night, concern a new city zoning code and a plan for major streets.

The new zoning code would call for nine zoning districts to be established in Sedalia. They would be: dwelling houses; duplex type dwellings; apartment houses; local businesses; general businesses; highway businesses; planned businesses, such as shopping centers; light industry and heavy industry.

The proposed districts for heavy industry are from 20th Street south to the city limits bordered by Clinton Rd. and Beacon Ave.; and from one-half block south of Main to the city limits north bordered by Park on the east and the city limits again on the west.

The proposed districts for light industry include: from 20th south to 24th, one-half block east of Ohio to one-half block east of Washington and along Saline from Mill to Brown.

The second proposal of the commission will be for main thoroughfares through the city. Those running north and south would be: Limit from the city limits to Main; Park, from 20th to Henry; Grand, from city limit to city limit; Ohio, from city limit to city limit; Ingram from city limit to Broadway; Washington from Broadway to Cooper; New York from city limit to city limit; and Marshall from city limit north to Broadway.

Those thoroughfares running east and west would include: Cooper from city limit to Booneville, picking up Booneville and running to city limit east; Main, from city limit west to Washington; Third from State Fair Blvd. to Engineer, then Gould to Marshall; Broadway, city limit to city limit; and 16th from city limit to city limit.

A completely different set of proposals will be considered Wednesday night in the discussion session. The committee, which is composed of S. J. Timbrious, chairman, William E. Hurlbut, vice-chairman, Earl Crawford, secretary, Virgil Herrick, Norbert Brosch, Mrs. David Alexander and Mrs. Bill Padgett, will present the following considerations: new city hall sites, parks and playgrounds improvements, additional fire stations, annexation to the city on both the east and west, and off-street parking.

The last of these issues is one that will receive much attention, as the Chamber of Commerce will have a representative at the meeting who has been working on a similar project. One of the issues to be discussed under this topic is the location of possible parking lots.

The discussion on the city hall will center around possible sites for the erection of a new building. The playgrounds and park proposals will include recommendations that the local parks and playgrounds be surveyed and from the surveys suggestions for improvements be made.

The issue on the fire stations will include recommendations that a portion of the eastern part of the city, as well as the western part, be incorporated into Sedalia.

Attending the Wednesday session will be Hubert Hare, senior member of the city planning firm.

Caught In Traffic To Fair—

Kansas Citian Misdirected Into Windsor's Centennial

The Windsor Centennial attracted large crowds to its fair grounds during the four days and much enjoyment was expressed by everyone who attended—all but one.

It seems a Kansas Citian and his family were headed for the Lake of the Ozarks, Friday night to enjoy the Labor Day weekend holiday and were taking the "short-cut" from Kansas City to Highway 65, by detouring off of Highway 50 down to Highway 52, through Windsor and out on Highway 65 to go south.

Coming into Windsor and starting out east on Highway 52, the traffic was jammed all the way from the fair grounds back into the center of the town. As the cars continued eastward, the Windsor Police were busy directing traffic into the fair grounds. Apparently they lost track of the fact there might be someone in the

Musie Program Arranged—

Buena Vista Will Have Its Annual Open House Sept. 11

The annual open house will be held at Buena Vista on Sunday, Sept. 11, from 1 to 5 p. m.

The people of Buena Vista Home are eagerly awaiting the day that will bring them many visitors because this is always a bright spot in the year for them.

A musical program will be presented during the afternoon and there will be an ice cream social. The Buena Vista Home was started Nov. 1, 1948, and is a non-profit organization for the purpose of caring for elderly people who need a good place to stay. It is under the direction of a board composed of Richard Lower, president, the Rev. A. J. Brunswick, vice-president, Mrs. M. E. Green, secretary, Earl Crawford, treasurer, and the following board members, H. E. Lindstrom, W. F. Keyser, Ed Hefferman, Olen Monsees, L. C. Bryson, Mrs. Virginia Flower and Miss Roseanne Dugan.

The first president was H. E. Lindstrom, who served five years. This home, owned by the county, is leased by this non-profit organization. Mrs. M. E. Green is superintendent and there are ten regular employees taking care of the people, two of whom are nurses on 24-hour duty. Several other counties now have set up similar homes following Pettis County's example.

The other counties are Jasper, Buchanan, Lawrence and just recently, Greene. Much of the food is raised at Buena Vista. This year they have canned more than 300 gallons of fruit and vegetables, which includes gooseberries, rhubarb, green beans, tomatoes, apples, beets and grapes, with still an abundance of apples, grapes and damson plums.

Admits Forcing Car Off Road, Killing Six-Year-Old Child

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 3.—Andrew Petty, 51, St. Louis was the driver of an automobile that forced a car off the road early today near Wentzville, killing John Breece, 6-year-old Clayton child.

Petty, with his wife and a neighbor, Almada Scott, were stopped by Columbia police at the request of the highway patrol on Highway 40.

Police said Petty signed a statement admitting he was involved after he was identified by James Breece, 15, brother of the dead youth.

James Breece came here with his clothing still bloody from the accident that killed his brother and injured his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Breece, and his sister. All are in a Troy hospital.

Petty is being held without charge temporarily.

Three Small Boys Admit Starting $57,000 Blaze

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—A six-year-old boy told police today that he and two other boys started a four-alarm, $57,000 fire by setting fire with matches to paper near some circus floats stored in a garage.

Police said the boy admitted tearfully that he obtained matches from a store and entered the garage with two other boys, 8 and 3½ years old.

The boy said they lit some paper near a "Donald Duck" float and when the float burst into flames, floats used by Moolam Temple in the annual Shrine circus were stored in the one-story garage.

Police said they questioned the boys after merchants in the area reported seeing them break into the garage late last night and return there early today before the fire. The boys were turned over to their parents.

The fire destroyed the garage, damaged stores, apartments and a pool hall, and forced about 30 persons to flee from the apartments. Streetcar and bus traffic was tied up for about two hours in the area.

Teachers Consider Finances

They Will Attend Meeting Thursday To Hear Foundation Program Discussed

A meeting of all Pettis County teachers has been called for Thursday, Sept. 8, at 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of hearing a discussion of the Foundation Program by Bernard H. Voges, of the State Board of Education in charge of school finances. The meeting, which is open to the public, will be held at the Smith-Cotton High School Little Theatre, and was called by Pinkney Miller, assistant principal at Smith-Cotton and co-ordinator, and Paul McKee, superintendent of the Smithton School, who are co-chairman.

This meeting is to familiarize voters with Referendum 1 and Referendum 2, which will be voted on Oct. 4.

Referendum 2 is a School Foundation Program whereby the State assumes more fully its responsibility for the education of all the children of the State, guaranteeing for every child a minimum educational opportunity.

The education of the children of Missouri is being threatened by the development of problems directly related to soaring school enrollment, overcrowded classrooms and securing qualified teachers. After months of careful study and nearly endless hours of intelligent discussion the legislative study committee produced its program and presented it to the legislature in January, 1955. As passed by the General Assembly two parts of the program are to be submitted to the voters for approval. These are Referendum 1 and 2.

Referendum 2 is to provide a basic minimum program of education for each child in keeping with the mandate expressed in our state constitution. It is a plan for more efficient use of school funds appropriated by the General Assembly. Its purpose is to allocate funds so there will be available for the education of each child from a combination of state and local sources at least 185 per year.

The General Assembly could determine with accuracy the amount of money needed for a given school year from state sources. It can't over-appropriate. If the children aren't there it can't be distributed. It means equal treatment at state level of all teachers with comparable training by eliminating the differential between elementary and high school teachers in teaching load and compensation.

It points up the principal that education is a joint responsibility between state and its local districts. It requires the same minimum local tax effort in all districts, encourages efficient organization and administration of all school.

Referendum 2, provides a more equitable sharing of school costs and lessens the future burden on real and personal property.

Referendum 1 would provide a two cents per pack tax on cigarettes, all to go to public schools. To finance the new Foundation Program it is necessary to provide 18½ million dollars more in school aid per year. An estimated 8 to 10 million dollars of this amount is anticipated from Referendum 1, the cigarette tax. The remainder of the funds to finance the program for the biennium would be provided by the increase in the alcohol tax (Please turn to page 6, Column 7)

Starts On Motor Trip Through Americas

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 3.—An Austrian motorist enthusiast and writer, Ernest Wiese, is on his way to America, determined to drive the length of the two American continents from Alaska to Tierra del Fuego.

He is going to tackle the trip—which he figures at about 20,000 miles—in a German-made diesel sedan. He says about a third of the distance has passable roads.

Start Clean Water Project For Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 3.—A 45-million-dollar project is under way to bring clean water to Egyptian villages by 1956. Allan E. Scruton

Allan Scruton Dies Saturday Unexpectedly

Had Been In Poor Health; Stockholder In Democrat Co.

Allan Earl Scruton, 62 years old, son of the late Col. George H. Scruton and Mrs. Alice L. Scruton, died unexpectedly about 9:45 p. m. Saturday at the Veterans Administration Home in Wadsworth, Kan. He had been in poor health for nearly two years. He was a stockholder in the Sedalia Democrat Co.

In January, 1954, he was taken ill and underwent a major operation at the Bothwell Hospital and on February 8, 1954, he was taken to the Veterans Hospital at Wadsworth for recuperation. For the past several months he had been in the Soldiers Home at Wadsworth.

Although in poor health his condition was not considered serious, and was able to be up and around his barracks up until Saturday afternoon. He retired early Saturday evening and was found about 9:45 by others in the barracks. When a doctor arrived at the bedside he had passed away several minutes before.

He was born at Talladega, Ala., September 8, 1892. His parents moved from Talladega to Fort Smith, Ark., where his father was in the newspaper business for a time before moving to Springfield, where he attended grade school.

For a number of years he was assistant advertising manager to the late Walter J. Brill.

He was a member of the Calvary Episcopal Church. He was also a member of the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion.

His father, the late Col. George H. Scruton, Sr. was editor and part owner of the Sedalia Democrat for 17 years. He died Nov. 29, 1925.

Following the death of Col. Scruton, his mother, the late Mrs. Alice Louise Scruton, became a stockholder in the Democrat and remained so until her death on January 8, 1955.

Burial will be in the Scruton family lot in Crown Hill cemetery.

Warfare Resumes All Along Border Of Israel, Egypt

Ends Two-Day Cease-Fire; Big Artillery Gun Duel Shatters Silence on Northern Gaza Tip

JERUSALEM, Sept. 3.—Warfare flared along the Gaza Strip again today, ending a two-day unofficial Israeli-Egyptian cease-fire. A U. N. source said heavy fire raked both sides of the border throughout the day.

In Gaza an official Egyptian spokesman said an Israeli armored force attacked an Egyptian post in the northern area of the Strip. He said there were no Egyptian casualties although 22 Israelis were believed killed and many others wounded.

There was no word of such an attack from the Israeli side. An Israeli spokesman here said earlier that an artillery duel had shattered the silence on the northern end of the Strip.

He said the shooting was touched off by the Egyptians selling two Israeli settlements in the area, Beeri and Yad Mordechai.

The Egyptian account of the attack said the Israeli assault troops were led by four armored half-tracks—vehicles with wheels in front and caterpillar tracks behind. Two of these were destroyed by the defenders, he added.

The Cairo spokesman also claimed that Israeli forces attacked an Arab refugee camp near Gaza but retreated under heavy Egyptian fire.

The 6 by 30-mile Egyptian-held strip had been comparatively quiet for the last two days, after nine straight days of violence.

The lull came after Israel notified Cairo that it would observe a U. N.-requested cease-fire had been sought by Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief U. N. truce supervisor in Palestine. He toured the Gaza area yesterday.

The Egyptians told Burns last Tuesday they would accept the cease-fire call but they made no direct reply to the Israeli message. The nine-day border fighting caused ed casualties estimated as high as 61 killed and 91 injured. Jet warplanes and armor were thrown into the struggle.

Neighboring Arab states have pledged aid to Egypt in case of stepped-up hostilities.

Labor Day Is Observed By Americans

Union Leaders Plan Big Political Push Next Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Union leaders announced plans today for a big political push in 1956 while millions of Americans observed the Labor Day weekend by taking their final fling at vacation travel for this summer.

AFL President George Meany and CIO President Walter Reuther both predicted in Labor Day statements that the scheduled merger of their organizations this December will mean a stepup in union political activity.

"Once labor is united," Meany said, "we are resolved to intensify the political activities of labor and free the trade union movement of these shackles forged by the political power of big business."

He referred to the Taft-Hartley Act and what he called "the misnamed 'right to work' laws, which prohibit union security contracts," now in force in 18 states. In general these laws ban the union shop, in which workers must join the union.

Reuther said: "The new united labor movement will, I feel confident, be more active than either the CIO or AFL separately, in organizing unorganized workers into democratic trade unions; in working with other groups in the community; in helping to elect the best qualified candidates for public office; and in seeking to bring about the passage of liberal, forward-looking legislation in every field."

The long Labor Day weekend brought the usual holiday rush to railroad, bus and airline depots and choked many highways leading into and out of metropolitan centers.

The National Safety Council estimated that throughout the country 40 million automobiles would be on the move some time over the weekend, and that 400 persons would be killed in traffic accidents between Friday night and midnight Monday.

Last year 369 were killed. The Council said its estimate of 400 deaths was 100 more than might be expected on a nonholiday weekend.

124 Fatalities Counted By Saturday Evening

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Labor Day weekend is off to a bloody start, with traffic smash-ups playing their customary role as the leading accidental killer.

By 8 p. m., central standard time, Saturday night the nation had counted 124 fatalities, 105 of them in highway mishaps. There had been eight drownings and 11 accidental deaths attributed to miscellaneous causes.

This was the distribution of deaths during the present holiday by states, with those from traffic, drowning and miscellaneous accidents listed in that order.

Arkansas 0 1 0; Colorado 3 0 0; Illinois 3 0 2; Iowa 4 0 0; Kansas 1 0 0; Missouri 4 0 0; Nebraska 1 0 0; Oklahoma 1 0 0; Tennessee 2 0 1.

The Eastern seaboard was cloudy with some light rainfall in spots, but the weather was fair over most of the country. Southern California continued to bake in a heat wave.

Bad Weather Forces Bendix Postponement

Trophy Race By Jets Rescheduled For This Morning

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Bad weather today forced a 24-hour postponement of the coast-to-coast Bendix Trophy race by six Air Force pilots flying the nation's fastest jet fighters.

But despite a limited ceiling and hazy visibility, the three-day national aircraft show opened as scheduled before an estimated 60,000 persons at International Airport.

The 2,325-mile cross-country flight of the supersonic jets was delayed because Air Force officials doubted whether the planes would be able to land due to the low ceiling.

The jets are due to take off tomorrow morning from the George Air Force Base at Victorville, Calif. In streaking across the country, making only one stop for refueling, the F-100 Super Sabre Jets are expected to average more than 650 miles an hour, possibly bettering the existing record of 652.522 set last March by Col. Robert R. Scott in an F-84 Thunderstreak.

Tomorrow's program also features another coast-to-coast race: the General Electric Trophy event in which three six-engine Boeing B-47 Stratojet bombers, with a three-man crew, will fly non stop 2,337 miles from March Air Force Base in California.

The Air Force canceled its hour-long aerial exhibition today in the interests of safety because cloudy skies coupled with a misty overcast reduced the ceiling below the minimum of 2,500 feet and the visibility was less than the required five miles.

The rest of the program was undisturbed. The Army, Navy and Marines in-the-air demonstrations were confined mainly to slow-moving propeller-type craft or helicopters.

Officials of the local chapter said some $8,000 in checks in the cracked safe were left.

Glass-Fiber Repair Kits Give New Weapon to Do-It-Yourself Workers

BY MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

If you're in the market for a bulletproof vest, don't bother shopping in men's wear at the department stores. Instead, try that body shop (not the mortuary, but the auto body repair establishment) around the corner.

Chances are the proprietor will have displayed on a shelf a variety of boxes, each labeled "Glass-Fiber Repair Kit." One or more of those is what you're after. With them you can make do-it-yourself bulletproof vests for the whole mob — or family, as the case may be. Well, maybe not quite. But the Air Force and Marine Corps have tested shrapnel-proof vests made of glass fiber.

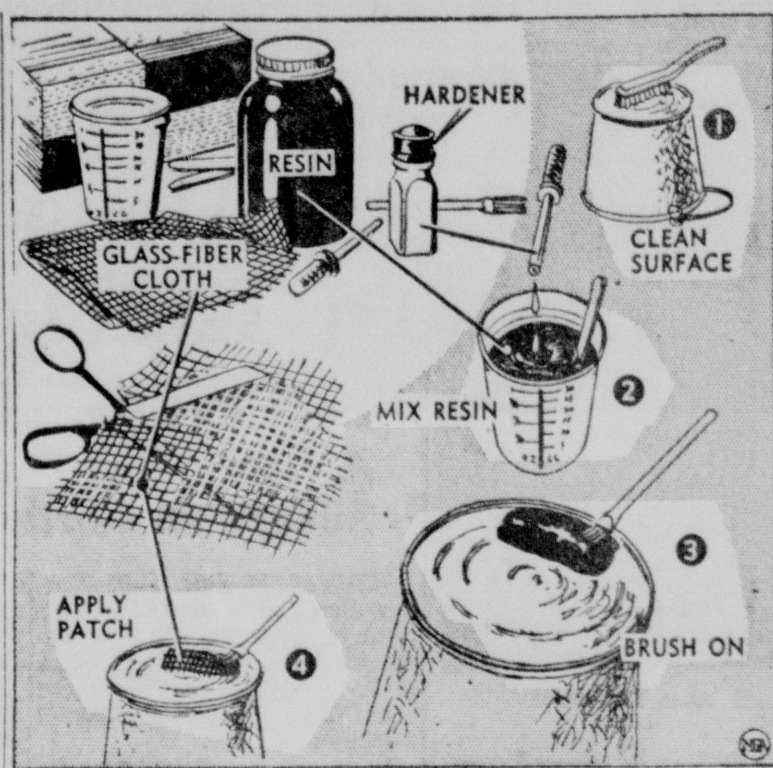

In case this type of apparel isn't fashionable in your neighborhood, you will find upon reading the labels that glass-fiber kits are useful for countless other do-it-yourself projects. Little ones, like repairing tool handles and mending leaks in gutters and downspouts. Or big ones, like building automobile bodies and boat hulls.

Each kit contains a quantity of glass-fiber cloth, a can or bottle of resin, a bottle of resin hardener, a dropper for measuring hardener into resin, mixing sticks and cups and a brush for applying the mixture.

A key item in the kit is the cloth itself. It is woven out of minute filaments of pure glass gathered together into strands. Since it is real glass, glass-fiber cloth is as acidproof, waterproof and weatherproof as a window pane.

The resin in the kit is even more important than the cloth. It is a honey-colored, viscous (like honey, thick and sticky) liquid. When resin hardener is added to it in a measured quantity, an internal heat develops that causes the resin to harden, or "cure."

This resin has exceptional adhesive qualities. When it is reinforced with glass-fiber cloth to make joints, patches, seals and other types of repairs, the result is sensational. It's said that a repair which combines the strength of glass cloth with the bonding characteristics of the resin will, in most cases, outlast the repaired materials. That's saying something. Imagine the things you could repair around the house. Practically anything made of wood, metal, concrete brick, glass, plastics, fabrics, leather, hard rubber, hard, and other materials. Which means you could mend glass shelves, pipe leaks, furniture, buckets, steel cabinets, wood and metal ladders, cracks in masonry walls, TV antennae, sagging garage doors, and so on, ad infinitum.

Auto body shops are beginning to use glass-fiber repair kits for filling dents, rust holes and tears in auto bodies and fenders. The resin and glass-cloth combination conforms to compound curves, and does away with much welding, soldering, brazing and leading common to auto repair.

Here's how you would make a repair using a glass-fiber kit: First, prepare the surface by sanding to remove all dirt, paint, oil or anything containing oil. Don't use paint remover. Cut glass-fiber cloth with scissors so that it overlaps area to be covered by at least two inches.

Now mix resin and hardener ac-

According to instructions. You have about 30 minutes working time before the plastic begins to jelly. Don't attempt to work with it in temperatures under 70 degrees.

Brush a coating of resin on the area to be patched. Apply glass cloth to the area, then another coat of resin over the cloth. Rub it in well. For additional strength you can put a second or even third coat of resin over the cloth. Rub pair before preceding coats have cured.

When the patch has hardened, sandpaper it smooth, then finish it as you would wood or metal.

Refugee Says Mindszenty Was Tortured

MILAN Italy (AP)—The independent Italian weekly "Oggi" today quoted a Hungarian refugee as saying that the Communists tortured Josef Cardinal Mindszenty before his 1949 trial.

The refugee, Karoly Kovacs, said he was imprisoned and tortured by the Hungarian Reds at the same time as the Roman Catholic prelate.

Kovacs said that he, the cardinal and two other persons were placed in a hermetically sealed cabinet about the size of a telephone booth, from which they could watch their torturers through glass.

The men, pressed together, were then alternately deprived of air and subjected to heavy air pressure.

"We fainted," he said, "but could not fall."

When air was pumped into the cabinet they again became conscious. But when the pressure was increased "our temples pounded, we became deaf and a tremendous weight pressed upon us," Kovacs continued.

After some minutes of this alternate treatment the cardinal became "pale as death." Doctors halted the process and gave him an injection.

Some time later, all four men were given pills that "made everything seem very strange. Everything seemed unreal and we seemed to have forgotten almost everything."

Then they were brought to trial, after being drilled repeatedly to "admit their guilt."

Mindszenty was sentenced to life imprisonment on charges of treason, espionage, and illegal financial transactions.

Last July 16, on the eve of the Geneva Big Four summit conference, the Hungarian Telegraphic Agency announced the cardinal's "state of imprisonment" had been suspended.

Since then, there has been no word of his whereabouts.

There are lead pencils to write in 72 different colors.

Beer Drinkers Absent
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Beer was everywhere—hundreds of cans and bottles strewn over the highway and surrounding marshland after a big truck overturned in a ditch.

But it didn't attract a crowd. In fact, no one came for more than an hour to help get driver Harold R. Arnett out of the cab, where he was trapped. He was not hurt.

More 'Objective' Views— Historians From Germany And America Get Together

BRUNSWICK, Germany (AP)—Many Americans and Germans alike failed to see the danger of Hitler's rise. Americans had an economic interest in allied victory before they entered World War I. The U. S. Senate's rejection of the Versailles peace treaty proved President Wilson's ineptness as a political manipulator.

These are "objective" views agreed upon by German and American historians in a week-long conference here. They recommended this week that these views be included in both countries textbooks to give students a "clear" picture of history.

The conference, second of its kind, was organized and financed by the U. S. embassy in Bonn. It was held under the auspices of the International Schoolbook Institute here. Similar meetings have been held by Germans with French and English historians.

Prof. George Eckert, director of the institute, said it was "extremely fruitful."

"Many historical events which have been presented onesidedly and with a moralizing tendency in the past now have been neutralized because their causes have been newly identified," he explained.

Eckert said many American text books had been revised to conform to the recommendations issued by the last conference in August, 1952. He did not say whether German books were also revised.

This year's conference produced three documents dealing with Ger-

Flood Gifts Nearly Doubled Quota Assigned

Disaster contributions for the relief of the flood sufferers in the eastern states have reached $1,624, which is well over the quota of $800 assigned to the Pettis County Chapter. The needs still continue, and if there are others who desire to contribute, checks may be sent to the Red Cross, 112 West Fourth Street.

Mrs. J. E. Norlin, chairman of Gray Ladies, has scheduled Gray Ladies for service on the third floor of Bothwell Hospital, and Mrs. James Woodard had scheduled 14 Gray Ladies to work during the month of September at the Sedalia Air Force Base Hospital.

Mrs. Olin Klein, Smithton, volunteer Home Nursing instructor, has 15 enrolled in her class. Other classes will be scheduled to begin later this month in different sections of the county.

The co-ordinating committee will meet with representatives from the Johnson County committee Tuesday morning at the office of the field director at the Sedalia Air Force Base. Mrs. Harold Dean, Mrs. John Lamy and Mrs. Philip Clark are representatives of the Pettis County Chapter.

The Red Cross office will be closed all day Labor Day.

Russians Toast Idea Of Law Conferences

MOSCOW (AP)—A group of top Russian law officials attending a luncheon for U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas Saturday urged better understanding between U. S. and Russian lawyers.

The bid was made in a Russian toast suggesting "a Geneva conference between members of the bar in the United States and the U.S.S.R."

Douglas declined comment on the toast. But he pointed out differences between the Soviet and American law codes.

Lion Rides Tailgate

CANADAIGUA, N. Y. (AP)—An elderly lion from the Kelly-Morris circus had a whiff—flavored by exhaust fumes—of freedom Saturday.

The lion was resting on the tail gate of a moving trailer on Route 21 near here when a motorist drove up and met the gaze of two tawny eyes.

The motorist, whose name was not learned, called police who caught the lion.

The circus was en route to Hornell for a police benefit performance.

An Impatient Secretary Has Gadget to Oust Carbon Paper

Beulah Louise Henry demonstrates her invention for eliminating carbon paper.

WASHINGTON — Notice to all secretaries who hate carbon paper, especially when it's put on backwards:

Your days of misery and retyping may soon be over. For a lady inventor with a wink in her eye and a striking resemblance to Mae West has devised a gadget which does away with carbon paper.

She's Miss Beulah Louise Henry who has been labeled "the world's foremost woman inventor."

Wearing a gigantic black hat over blond hair and an out-of-fashion dress reaching nearly to her ankles, she came here from New York to plug her carbon-eliminator.

The typewriter attachment will go on sale within the month and retails for $69.50, according to its manufacturer.

"I invented it because I was angry," she chortled with a coy look. "One day I was typing a long letter with a carbon copy and near the end I discovered it was turned the wrong way."

"Crying with exasperation I tugged the paper out of the machine and it fell on the floor under the desk. Right then I was determined never to use carbon paper again."

When did she figure out a substitute?

"By the time I got up from under the desk it was invented," Miss Henry exclaimed happily.

This is how most of her ideas come about — in a flash.

Or in the wink of an eye. For although this lady is an inventor and expert mechanic, she hasn't forgotten for a moment how to be feminine and charming. And she loves to wink in a friendly way after a funny remark.

Miss Henry's carbon-eliminator is a swinging arm-like gadget that locks into place over the typewriter carriage. Basically what it does is add two more ribbons between which extra sheets of paper are threaded.

According to those who are sponsoring the invention, it would save the U. S. government $16,000 a day, for the Pentagon must burn tons of carbon paper daily to keep information secret.

Since the day she was a nine-year-old girl living in Charlotte, N.C., Miss Henry's mind has been going into inventive tail spins. At that time — her age is a secret — she dreamed up an automatic hat-tipper for men who were occupied with other affairs when they greeted a woman.

Today she has 80 patents, including the carbon eliminator which is the most recent. Her inventions range from a bobbin-less sewing machine with a lock stitch to a convertible umbrella for gals who want cloth covers to match different garments.

Then there is the life-like toy cow that gives real milk. "It's called Milky Moo," laughed Miss Henry. "Many boys and girls in the city never have a chance to see a real cow, and they think that milk comes only from bottles."

Why when the president of one of the country's biggest doll companies looked at this toy after I had made it, he didn't say a thing. He just walked out with it under his arm."

Dubbed "the woman Edison," this witty and majestic lady has never had scientific or technical training, but she's able to operate any of the machines in the New York factory where her inventions are developed.

When an inspiration hits Miss Henry she doesn't waste a minute. She'll take some pipe cleaner, hairpins, ribbon and a bit of adhesive tape and deftly make a rough model.

Then she takes the idea to Nicholas Manolovich who is a professional invention developer. The two of them have been working more or less as a team for 15 years.

"It's astounding to see the implicit workings of her mind," he declares. "One day she saw a doll that said mama when you tilted it. But she was bothered because you had to tilt it up again and then down for another mama. So we went to work and soon we had a doll that cried mama on the way down and papa on the way up."

A Litany of Expansion—

Building and Industry Booming Again in '55 All Over Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missouri's industrial and building boom is hitting a new high.

Evident in virtually every section of the state are the outlay of money and plans for industrial expansion, new industries and all categories of buildings.

For instance: Chillicothe has had four new residential subdivisions approved just this summer.

At Jefferson City the Chamber of Commerce has only 10 acres of land left for industrial sites, is looking for more.

Special elections for municipal improvements have been numerous and more are in the offing in the fall.

And throughout the state there are 60 active, and in many cases well-heeled, industrial development corporations bidding for new industries.

Taking a look at the overall picture, James D. Idol, industrial director of the Missouri Division of Resources and Development, had this to say recently:

"The future for industry in Missouri continues to look bright. Last year was another blue-ribbon year and we have every reason to believe that 1955 will be another top year for new and expanding industry in the state."

Contract awards in the state for the first seven months are far ahead of 1954. The F. W. Dodge Corp., construction news specialists, reported the seven-months 1955 totals compared with the like 1954 period were:

Non-residential, up 46 percent $178,687,000.

Residential, up 46 percent, $202,145,000.

Heavy engineering, up 30 percent, $4,501,000.

All of which adds up to a whopping $445,333,000.

One of the fastest expanding spots in the state is the Joplin area. It has been estimated that more than $45,000,000 in construction is planned for that section in the next two years. Topping the list of new industries there is the $10,000,000 Aero-Jet rocket engine plant at Ft. Crowder.

Other projects included is an $11,000,000 expansion of Empire District Electric Co., facilities; $4,000,000 in 20 new housing projects; a $2,000,000 senior high school and a $1,500,000 shopping center.

The value of new industrial and commercial developments in the Greater St. Louis area for the first half of the year were placed at about $120,000,000, as compared with $174,000,000 for all of 1954. Among the major projects is an expansion of the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants of General Motors, another step bolstering Missouri's claim as the nation's second largest auto manufacturing state.

Estimates of the Home Builders Assn. of Greater St. Louis placed the number of new single-family homes started during the first half of the year at 5,000. Previously the association had predicted 12,000, but revised the estimate because of a three-weeks strike against ready-mixed concrete firms, problems arising from sewer restrictions; restrictions on housing loans and growing shortage of land for residential construction.

Across the state Greater Kansas City area builders have placed the number of new homes this year at 12,000, or 2,000 more than last year.

Construction work is at its peak in Cape Girardeau, where residential construction is higher this summer than ever before. Biggest industrial news there is plans of Marquette Cement Co., to erect a second plant. The $6,500,000 project will include bulk loading facilities at the company's Mississippi River dock. The new plant will boost annual production there to 3 million barrels. Scheduled to go into production by Dec. 1, 1956, the plant will employ about 200 more workers.

Building permits for the first six months of the year at St. Joseph reached $3,804,212, as compared with $972,250 for the same period a year ago. Biggest housing development of the year there is a $1,250,000, 24-building, 96-apartment project. Sears, Roebuck & Co., is building a retail store and warehouse expected to cost at least a million dollars. American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders Assn., now moving its headquarters from Chicago, is putting up a $350,000 building.

Private, school, church and commercial building so far this year in Poplar Bluff is estimated at $3,573,000. Well over a million of this is home construction, now on the way to a new record for the city. This does not include a sharp increase in home building in Butler County, estimated at another million dollars.

Central Missouri cities report an increased pace in building.

Building permits at Jefferson City for the first eight months totaled $2,505,258, compared with $1,682,477 for 1954. In addition to the state construction, the Von Hoffman Press is completing a 68,000 square foot building; the McGraw Electric Co., is moving into a 48,000 square foot structure and the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation is getting ready to build a $70,000 headquarters building.

Columbia, bursting at the seams with building, votes Sept. 27 on a $2,000,000 bond issue for parking lots, street and civic improvements and $600,000 for the renovation of two schools.

Largest single project in the city is the $13,000,000 University of Missouri Medical Center, scheduled for completion in the spring. The University is expanding its power plant to the tune of $2,500,000 and the municipal plant is undergoing an expansion for the same amount. A 3-quarter million dollar married student housing project is nearing completion and another half a million dollar project is under way.

Northeast of Columbia work has begun on a new home for the MFA insurance division, and the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., Bloomington, Ill., has bought an 11-acre tract for a regional office building.

Lumber dealers, banks and loan companies estimate that building of private homes in Fulton is up as much as 50 to 60 per cent over a year ago. Among upcoming major projects is a $650,000 addition to the Callaway County Hospital; a $60,000 headquarters building for the Callaway County Electric Co-operative and a $150,000 Catholic school building.

At Mexico, residential and commercial building is reported "equaling or exceeding" the pace set last year, when the construction total there was more than 2 1/4 million dollars.

At West Plains plans are under way for a $200,000 flooring mill. The Kraft Foods Corp., has announced a half million dollar addition to its plant at Springfield.

Carthage, for the first seven months of year, had an estimated $648,441 worth of new construction and remodeling. Flex-o-Lators, Inc. a bed spring factory, is building a $40,000 addition to its plant. Soon to begin is work on a levee project to protect the industrial area of North Carthage from Spring River floods. The government has allocated $367,000 toward the project.

Regional Library Notes—

A Thriving Democracy Must Be Well-Informed Democracy

"The real basis of democracy," said Adolf Berle, "is opinion." That is to say that democracy is really the sum of all our 150 million opinions on the issues before the country. In the mature functioning democracy that the United States is supposed to be, each of us should be prepared to speak his informed and considered opinion in a sort of daily national poll, and in any case to always speak it at election time.

And how are we prepared for this? Some of our peoples once held town meetings and made all their decisions in a kind of committee-of-everybody arrangement but that is no longer possible. In a country as huge as ours, we have to educate ourselves in government at long distance. There is no better way than by reading.

As far as the United States is concerned, we must understand local differences. The Northerner should read William Percy's "Lanterns on the Levee" and Richard Wright's "Black Boy" to understand the problems of the Cotton Belt. In general, any American can get a quick understanding of other sections of our country thru John Gunther's "Inside U.S.A."

There are dozens of newspapers, periodicals and commentators that give all types of views but a general background of history leading up to the present issues is worthwhile. History read in one's adult life has much more meaning than the school boy or school girl type of material. There are many good adult histories but "The Growth of the American Republic" by Samuel Eliot Morison and Henry Steele Commager is short readable and comprehensive.

Biographies of statesmen, of current men in our government, of leaders in the scientific fields as well as the political fields, help one's judgment. But never read just one side of any controversial issue. Read both sides and then make up your own mind. That is important in a democracy. Use your library for background material. Only the present happenings are given in newspaper accounts, you need it all for a considered opinion. Boonlick Regional Library can provide a variety of material on many issues of today.

British Claim An Electronic 'Love Tester'

BRISTOL, England (AP)—British scientists say they have invented a love test machine which can tell right off whether you and your girl friend should get married.

The machine is called "Topsy and Annie." It is described technically as a topograph and analyzer.

"Topsy and Annie" was shown and discussed here this week during the meeting of the British Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

It is a complex electronic affair which the scientists say can tell from the rhythm of brain waves whether a

After Many Other Activities— Mrs. Rena Tevis Follows Her Mother's Work, Teaching

Because her mother was a teacher and loved her profession, Mrs. Rena Tevis decided she would be a teacher, too. She has had a variety of jobs and then went back to the very thing she started out to do, teach school.

Mrs. Tevis was born in Henry County and taught one year in a rural school after taking a teacher training course in the Clinton High School. Then she went to New York with her brother and worked for a time in Scheaft's Restaurant but later she came on back to Missouri. When she came back home she still had teaching in mind and went on with her education, attending Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg. She worked in the home of Prof. C. F. Martin, then head of the English department, to pay her way at school and taught in Pettis County at Longwood High School until she became ill. Rena's illness, caused by undulant fever, was long but she eventually recovered and married a young Pettis County farmer.

During the first part of World War II she held a civil service position at the Quartermaster Depot in Kansas City. Later she joined her husband in Gulfport, Miss., where he was stationed and taught the seventh grade arithmetic in the Junior High School there.

Then her husband was transferred to New Haven, Conn., and Rena went along. In New Haven she went to work for the American Tube Bending Company and operated a large machine that bent tubes to be used in making airplanes. Up to that time this machine had been operated by men and she was the first woman to run it. Up to that time, too, many here thought that a woman couldn't run it, but the shortage of man power and Rena proved they could, and she did.

Mrs. Tevis quit that job not because her husband was transferred but because of another male in her family, the arrival of their little son, Kenneth. This was a new kind of a job for Rena, the job of being a mother. Two years later another member was added to her family, Mary Lou. Kenneth is now ten years old and Mary Lou is eight. Until they were both in school Rena stayed home and took care of them, then year before last that urge to go back to teaching came and she taught at Camp Branch.

Last year she accepted a position at Broadway teaching the third grade and loving it.

Rena Revis has done a lot of travelling over the United States. She has been to the Gulf of Mexico, the Pacific Ocean, the Atlantic Ocean, and made trips, while she was in New York to the Catskill Mountains, Arlington Cemetery, Plymouth Rock, Washington, D.C., and while at Gulfport, Miss., went to New Orleans, Baton Rouge and down to Florida. She has been to Canada, too, but after all that came on back to Sedalia to teach. That is because, she says, she married a Pettis County farmer and the farm is near Sedalia. But Rena is happy here, happy on the farm with her husband and children, happy teaching the third grade at Broadway and in addition to all the other things she has to do she is, also an assistant 4-H leader in the Brown community.

Once again it is time for school to start and Rena is anxious. It is a busy time just before school opens getting Kenneth and Mary Lou ready with new clothes and new books, getting everything lined up at home so she, too, can go back to the school room—but the sound of the school bell in September is like music to her ears. That is why she tried many other kinds of work and went back always, to the job she likes best, teaching.

Glenn M. Brill Family Topic Of Article

A recent article in the University of Missouri journalism alumni bulletin gives this account of Glenn M. Brill and his family, formerly of Sedalia. Brill is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Brill, his father being the former advertising manager of The Sedalia Democrat. His mother, after the death of Mr. Brill, maintained her stock holdings in the Democrat Co. until her death in 1954.

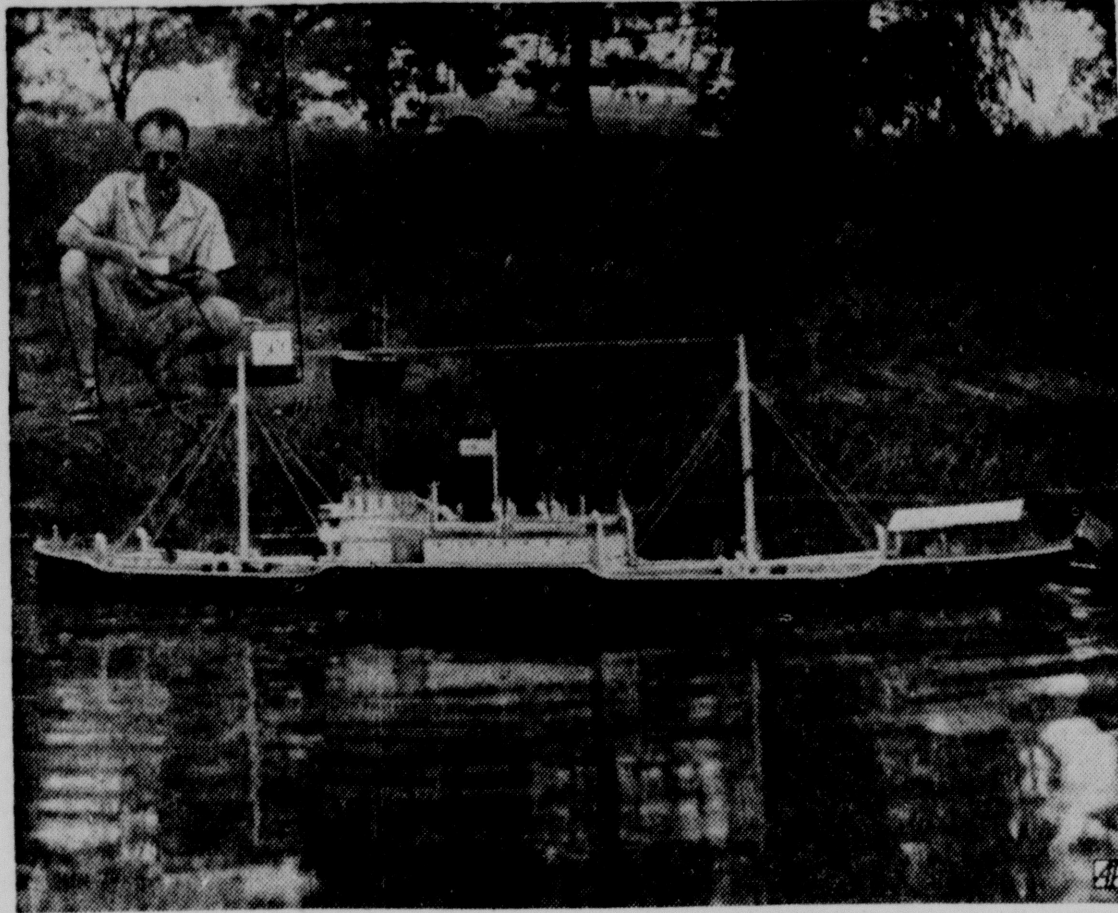

The article states: The Glen M. Brill family of 750 Clarkson St., Denver, Colo., is celebrating this summer. Glenn received his B.J. in 1925 and Mrs. Brill, nee Fern Wharton, was a journalism student in 1923-24.

Glenn writes that the Glenn Brill Advertising Agency is taking a long-earned sabbatical leave of absence to celebrate the fulfillment of the daughters' college careers and the launching of their matrimonial futures.

Barbara Wharton Brill, was graduated May 30 from Sophie Newcomb College and on May 31, from Tulane as a scholarship art major, following two years of scholarship art at Colorado Women's College in Denver. On Aug. 6, she was married in Denver to William Simmons of Colorado Springs. He is a graduate of Brown University and the University of Colorado and now completing medical training at the University of Colorado School of Medicine.

Evelyn Lou Brill, another daughter, was graduated from Wellesley College June 13, a scholarship music major. Evelyn, better known as "Bridgie", was this year's director of the Wellesley Madrigal Choirs. On June 25 she was married in Denver to Lawrence Hackstaff, graduate of Williams College, Phi Beta Kappa, this year getting his M.A. and Ph.D. in philosophy from Yale.

Papa and Mama Brill (Glenn and Fern) were married in 1925.

Pinkney Miller, coordinator of the cooperative occupational education program of the Sedalia public schools, has just returned from a three-day retailing clinic which was held in Jefferson City, Aug. 29-31.

Speakers who appeared on the program were: Mrs. Sue Coates of the retailing department, Stephens College, Columbia, who discussed the topic "Textiles"; E. Glenn had wide experience in newspaper work before establishing his own advertising agency in Denver.

Brill, after completion of his education at the University of Missouri journalism school, was employed for a time as the night editor of The Sedalia Capital and before attending school was for many years a reporter on the staff of The Democrat.

For several years he was with the Associated Press, later going to Colorado where he established his own advertising agency.

Clerk Loses Arm On Roller Coaster

ST. LOUIS (P)—Robert Rimmell, 20-year-old clerk, lost his left arm Friday night in an accident on the roller coaster at Forest Park Highlands, an amusement park.

A companion, James Scharenberg, told police Rimmell was riding alone on the front seat of the roller coaster's first section.

Scharenberg said he couldn't see clearly what happened because of the darkness, but he did see Rimmell fall from his seat and plunge about 25 feet to the ground. He was found unconscious on the ground a few minutes later with his arm, severed at the shoulder, about 15 feet from him.

He was placed on the adult education program in the local communities.

Sedalian Slightly Hurt, Demolishes Car When It Leaves Hiway

Harper was alone at the time and headed west on the highway. He reported a car approaching from the west crowded him off of the highway and did not stop.

A passing motorist stopped, picked Harper up and brought him to Sedalia to the Bothwell Hospital where he was examined and x-ray pictures taken. He did not suffer any fractures although his back was injured and he received numerous bruises.

The Vincent residence burned to the ground. The loss was estimated at $450 to the residence and $250 to the contents.

County Court

The County Court has reported that two of the bridges which were washed out by the heavy rains in this vicinity Monday have been repaired and are now open to traffic.

The court said that six bridges had been made impassable by the heavy downpour at the first of the week, five of them in the southwest portion of the county where rainfall neared seven inches.

One of the northern stretches of road, which was made impassable by the rain is still out of use. It is located at the Blackwater bridge where nearly one-fourth mile of road was washed out.

The court reports that a number of men have been set to work repairing the roads and bridges and completion of the repairs should be made within two weeks.

The estimated cost of the repairs has been placed at $2,000.

Held in Switzerland—

Hazel Palmer Returns From International BPW Meeting

Everywhere in Europe, Miss Hazel Palmer, first vice-president of the National Business and Professional Women's Clubs, said upon her return from the international board meeting she attended in Switzerland, there is talk of a United States of Europe. A uniting of these countries into something on the order of the United States of America, they believe would not only give them more strength but more freedom where they could go from country to country as we go from state to state.

It is like a story book land, these countries of Europe she found, with their perfectly kept small farms that look like they might have been swept they are so tidy. All of the homes are well kept, too, with even pictures painted on the outside of the homes in some countries. She found people in Europe very contented, living as easily as possible, and doing everything they could to enjoy themselves. Bicycles are the mode of travel. Mother and father each has a bicycle, each take a couple of the youngsters and away they go. They even do their courting on bicycles, she said, a boy and a girl will each have a bicycle and ride along together. Often their bikes get very close and the boy will catch the handlebar of the girl's bike.

The women and children do most of the farm work with the same type of farm implements they used hundreds of years ago. But, she noted that they all wore dresses. She never saw a woman in slacks and short there, doing the farm work, riding bicycles or anywhere. The only two or three she did see in slacks or shorts were American tourists, she said.

Miss Palmer left New York on Aug. 6, with 129 Business and Professional Club members from the United States. They were officially sponsored by the National Federation on this tour. After they reached Europe they were joined by 37 others from the United States who had gone over previously.

The board meeting was held in Bern, Switzerland, and the Silver Jubilee was held in Geneva. High tribute was paid to the late Dr. Lena Madessin Phillips, founder of the International Business and Professional Women's Club 25 years ago. Dr. Phillips, an American, was president of the national federation and later served for several years as president of the international federation.

The business women in the European countries, Miss Palmer stated, dressed, talked and thought very much like the women from the United States. Many of them have their own businesses and some even own factories. In fact, when it comes to dress, she said, the women of Europe are more and more following the styles of the west. The English language, as we speak it in America, she said, seemed to be becoming the universal language. All of the women at the meeting spoke the American-type English and she found that the people everywhere she went talked it some. Most sales people knew a little English, she said. She found, too, that there was a very good feeling in Europe toward Americans. They were very cordially received everywhere they went, and frequently they were told that the Americans made them happy because they laughed.

They visited the Palais Des Nations on Jubilee Day where they heard a speaker, Mrs. Anna Figueroa, chief of workers of the I.L.O., who took for her subject: "The Next 25 Years." Later they had tea at the restaurant there.

Their trip, Miss Palmer said, covered eight countries. Among the cities they visited were Dusseldorf, Cologne, the seat of West Germany, Bonn, Coblenz, a steamship trip to Assmannhausen, Weisbaden, Darmstadt, Heidelberg, and Mannheim, where they saw historic spots and castles, some of which they went through.

In Bonn the head of the American Embassy, Mrs. Mildred Allport entertained the executive committee.

From Mannheim they went to Munich where Hazel had been last October and motored through upper Bavaria to Lake Stomberg. They went to Oberammergau where the Passion Play is held, visiting the theatre and points of interest, they visited Salzburg, Austria, where they attended the Music Festival, then to Innsbruck from where they left for Zurich, Switzerland and went from there Lucerne, by motor boat; from Lucerne they went to Bern, the seat of the International Board meeting which was Aug. 21 through Aug. 25. Here they were received by the United States ambassador by Miss Frances Willis. One of the things for their entertainment was an excursion on Lake Thome on the SS Jungfrau.

After the meeting they flew to Paris for a couple of days where they went to a number of historical places and also visited the Louvre where they saw Nike, the Winged Victory, emblem of the Business and Professional Women's Federation.

In London the United States group gave a tea honoring all the officers. They was the first of the trip when they arrived in London. They toured the Shakespeare country, some of the castles and universities and other interesting places.

One of the most thrilling things that she did, Miss Palmer thinks, was being taken on the floor of the Lloyds of London, by the chairman of the committee of Lloyds, Sir Matthew Drysdale and the assistant chairman, McNeal. There were just three of them in this group, Miss Palmer, Fannie Hardy of Little Rock, Ark., second vice president of the National Federation, and Hattie Steinberg, York, Neb., recording secretary. They were then served tea in the board room.

The whole trip was something to remember, but, as always, Hazel was glad to get back to her own United States, which she thinks is the best place of all. Even more, after all her travels she can't find any place she likes better than Sedalia—that is home.

Sears Roebuck Office to Expand

The Sears Roebuck catalogue office of Sedalia is expanding into a much larger sales office. The sales office will be enlarged to house a much bigger display area, business office, freight department and telephone switchboard.

The present office at 117 East Third will expand into the west side of the building, formerly occupied as a restaurant. The building is known as the Ohio Building.

The new sales office will be modern in every respect. Air conditioning has been installed and will heat or cool the entire office. All new lighting will be in effect. The service department will enlarge with the new store also.

A larger loading zone will give more access to persons doing business with Sears.

The entire front of the building will get a "face-lifting" and will be very modern.

Mrs. Mildred Goddard, present manager, will continue her staff and will also continue business as the remodeling takes place.

The new sales office is expected to be open sometime in October.

United Cerebral Palsy Meeting Tuesday

A general meeting sponsored by United Cerebral Palsy of Pettis County, Inc., will be held at the assembly room of the Pettis County Court House Tuesday night starting at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Rudolph Swope, director of the Crippled Children's Center, will present the volunteer workers who will assist her at the school during its first six weeks session starting late in September. Mrs. Betty Austin, one of the volunteer workers, will talk on the subject, "Approach to the Exceptional Child."

Water Bag 'Bombs' Dropped Into Ontario Forest Fires

By JAMES MONTAGNES
NEA Special Correspondent

TORONTO, Can. — An endless outbreak of fires in Ontario's vast forests have kept the world's largest fleet of aircraft devoted entirely to patrolling forests busier than ever this summer.

Ontario's forests, which supply much of the newsprint used in the United States, stretch from north of the Great Lakes to Hudson Bay. To keep an eye on this area, more than five times as big as the New England states, Ontario has been using an aerial forestry patrol service for almost 30 years.

Early in May the forestry protection planes began their operations from the main base at Sault Ste. Marie. The 40 yellow-painted aircraft operate during the summer from bases throughout the area. They are supplemented by helicopters to get firefighters and equipment into remote and otherwise inaccessible spots.

During the winter months, some of the aircraft are used to fly conservation officials, lumber scalers, and surveyors, as well as for mercy flights into remote fur trading posts and mining camps. But now the planes carry men and supplies into forest fire areas, after they have been spotted from the air and from fire towers throughout the province.

The supplies range all the way from hose and hand tools to fight forest fires to a dismantled pack-tractor developed by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests engineers to carry supplies into inaccessible spots in forested areas.

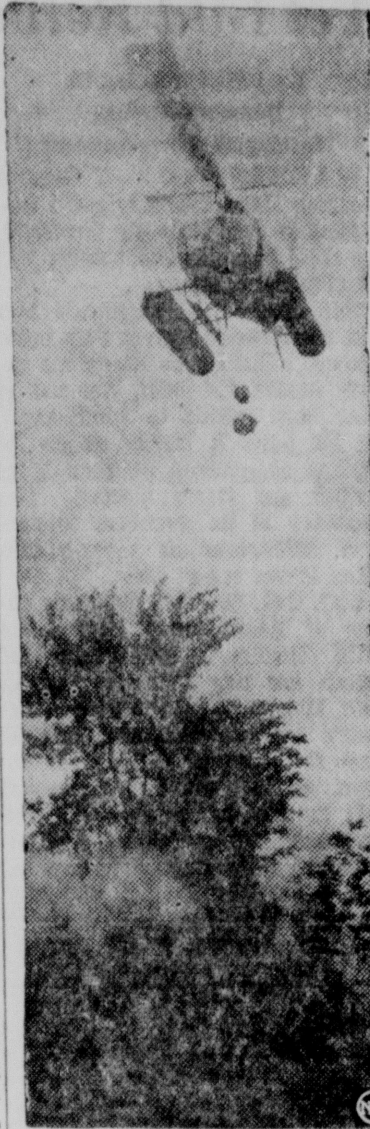

The Ontario Air Service has developed many methods of fighting forest fires from the air. Water bombing, parachute dropping of fire-fighting equipment and provisions to fire line crews, carrying of small initial attack crews on air patrols, have all proven highly successful in the past year. The planes and 'copters are even used to lay hose.

Water bombing is done with large paper bags filled with water.

Quite a Crowd
NEWPORT NEWS, Va. — How big is the Navy's new super carrier Forrestal?

The entire population of a city of 40,000 persons could stand on the hangar deck which the Newport News Shipyard says is the world's largest, unbroken, enclosed space. It is three and a half city blocks long and could accommodate 18 full-sized basketball courts. And the overhead sprinkling system can spray water on the deck at 18,000 gallons a minute.

In some rural areas 75 per cent of the checks are written in pencil.

WATER BAGS AWAY! Paper bombs drop on Ontario fire.

The bags are fitted into a bomb-release mechanism on the planes as well as on helicopters. Planes can fly low over a fire area and drop quantities of water-filled bags to help control the fire until surface crews can reach it.

Helicopters have been found extremely useful in the forest fire season to drop men and supplies scant yards from forest fire lines far from water landing spots needed for aircraft.

Helicopters also have acted as ferry links between the aircraft and bases of operation as well as freight carriers on hinterland construction jobs, such as hill-top fire-spotting towers.

One forest fire was kept down to a quarter-acre size when a Beaver aircraft and a helicopter rendezvoused two and one-half miles from the fire and the helicopter ferried in men and equipment close to the two forest rangers were flown 28 miles by helicopter to a forest fire started by lightning. The fire was out within four and one-half hours. Fire rangers reported this fire would have reached major proportions had no helicopter been readily available.

Nevadan Killed

NEVADA, Mo. — The sheriff's office reported Roy Frederick Rushton of Independence, Mo., was killed Saturday in a traffic accident at the Mormon River bridge about five miles north of Nevada on U. S. 71.

Illinois Legion Frowns on UN Membership

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The Illinois American Legion Friday reaffirmed its opposition to United States membership in the United Nations and some delegates walked out, reportedly as a protest against a speech by Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

The Legion further repudiated the policies of its state commander by voting him out of a seat as a delegate-at-large to the national convention. Although it is traditional to send a retiring commander to the convention, meeting this year in Miami, retiring Commander Irving Breakstone received only 415 votes. The lowest vote among the five successful candidates for delegate was 2,056.

A number of delegates also walked out as Governor Williams began to address the meeting although it was not established that all those walking out were in protest against the speaker.

John Stelle, former national commander, said the walkout came in the midst of a heated debate. He said the walkout involved only one-fourth of the delegation, and there were indications that many of the 200 who walked out were ready for a break anyway.

However, Charles V. Falkenberg, Chicago attorney favoring the resolution urging withdrawal from the U. N., told a newsman: "Williams and Stassen are not the type of persons whom the majority here wanted as speakers to address them because both are more international-minded, more United Nations minded, more welfare minded than the rank and file feel desirable."

Harold Stassen, presidential assistant, was on the speaking program today.

Trouble Is Predicted
HOUSTON, Tex. — Justice D. F. Thompson ruled the evidence was not sufficient to convict a chemical company for air pollution.

"But I'm sure going to catch heck from the ladies in that area," he remarked.

Telephone rang just as he made the statement. His face got red, but he listened meekly. "My wife," he groaned. She'd just heard about the verdict.

Pvt. J. W. Booth Studies Music At Navy School

Pvt. John W. Booth

Pvt. John W. Booth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley R. Booth, 618 West Sixth, has been stationed at the U. S. Naval School of Music in Washington, D.C.

The school accepts a limited number of men from the Army and Marines to complete their enrollment of approximately 350 men, who are chosen by audition from service bands throughout the country and abroad.

Booth attends two concert band rehearsals and one dance band rehearsal daily in addition to classes, study periods and private instruction on the trumpet.

After six months at the school he will return to the Fifth Army Command Band, which services 14 states out of its headquarters at Ft. Sheridan, Ill., where Booth has been stationed since February.

Speed for Police
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. —

William Harris Henson was charged by St. Petersburg police with speeding. He said he had borrowed the unmarked patrol car of Police Chief Tom Kilpatrick of nearby Belle Vista Beach and was hurrying to get it back by the time Kilpatrick had to start patrolling. City Judge Hbert L. Peterson said the excuse was novel but not good enough. He fined Henson $20.

Fire for Pets
OWOSSO, Mich. — A fire in a wheat field broke up a family picnic on the Clyde Sutton farm—and a cat and dog perished. After dealing with the fire, Mrs. Sutton said she found the cat had eaten a pound of picnic butter and the dog had finished off the rest of the food.

The Bear Facts

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — There was excitement in both the police and sheriff's offices here recently when someone reported the discovery of a decomposed body near the city. Officers investigated, found the carcass to be that of a skinned bear and one deputy commented "they should have called Davy Crockett."

Tree Won't Wait

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — Charles B. Poisson called a tree service firm to send someone out to cut down a large box elder in his back yard. He had discovered the tree's trunk was rotted. The workmen arrived 15 minutes after the tree crashed, damaging Poisson's roof, smashing a sun porch and breaking a rear window.

Green Hair Tried

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Hair stylist Guy Tipton came up with a new green hair tint and actually found takers.

Two normally blond youths exhibited the green hair at a downtown corner, getting a mixed reaction—but no questions as to where the dye jobs could be obtained.

Tipton says it's really very simple in case anyone wants to try it at home. Just take some hot bluing—the kind used in washing clothes—apply it to light hair. The blue mixes with the yellow pigments of the hair and the result is green. It won't work for brunettes.

Tipton says the stuff will wash right off.

Your Chance To Live Longer

Chances of living to 100 are twice as good as they were one-half century ago, according to researchers for life insurance companies.

Latest casualty reports from the Labor Day highway excursion front might indicate otherwise. Even so there are hopeful signs anticipated slaughter will leave no more than 400 dead and a few thousand injured—not even considering property losses.

In the quest to minimize accident tolls in Missouri there have been adopted legal restraints and driver education; the latter, in the very nature of things, being the best approach to a solution.

New Missouri license regulations now make it easier to keep reckless drivers off the road. A driver's license may be suspended after two convictions on charges of careless and reckless driving in two years. Formerly it was three convictions in two years. Also a driver can lose his license after four traffic violations in two years, instead of five in one year.

The new laws are a weapon against chronic offenders, drivers who haven't any business behind the wheel and on the highways.

How effective the new laws will be remains to be seen. Certainly the effects will not be felt unless there is rigid prosecution and enforcement of the license suspension provisions.

There is still no law against speed on the highways, a legal restraint which some say wouldn't have effectiveness anyway.

But the best long range plan to bring sanity to driving habits is driver education and training in our schools.

Now that schools are about to open, parents should encourage high school teen-agers to take this important training course.

Statistics already indicate school trained drivers have only half as many accidents as those who have not received the course. Because trained drivers cause less economic loss insurance companies are beginning to recognize this. Rate reduction in auto liability insurance is becoming available when single drivers under 25 and married drivers under 21 have satisfactorily completed high school or college driver education courses.

While considering these possibilities of protecting lives, don't forget that beginning Tuesday the traffic situation in Sedalia and other communities will change. Children will be going to and returning from many schools, crossing many streets. Slow down and let the children live!

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

New Day Dawns For Labor's Solidarity

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation his column is being written by members of his staff.)

By Tom McNamara

WASHINGTON — The working people of America have many reasons to count their blessings this Labor Day. Never before in our history have the great craft and industrial unions faced the future with such confidence and solidarity.

In December the merger of the AFL and CIO will bring together approximately 15,000,000 workers, a united movement that will dwarf the already powerful influence of the two groups on the economic and political life of the nation.

We have the highest wage standards of any country in the world, plus a new concept, inherent in almost every union contract being signed, of health and retirement benefits for wage earners and their families.

The guaranteed annual wage, a dream of the past, has become a reality with the signing of the recent contract between the Ford Motor Company and the United Auto Workers. Congress has raised the minimum wage to $1 an hour for most low-paid employees and extended social security and survivor benefits to all but a few.

American labor can be proud of its unceasing struggle for these accomplishments. Labor also can look back with pride on a distinguished war record, in which it backed up its sons on the fighting line with staggering production quotas in defense plants while we were fighting two kinds of totalitarianism.

Labor's Good Round

Labor's top leaders are observing the holiday in different ways many miles apart. AFL President George Meany will deliver a radio address Monday night from the nation's capital. CIO President Walter Reuther is in Israel, where today he will help dedicate the Philip Murray Labor Center at Elath. The center was made possible by a $100,000 grant from the Philip Murray Foundation, which raised $1,000,000 in honor of the late CIO leader. Most of it has been spent on Protestant, Catholic and Jewish causes in which Murray was interested. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell will attend the annual Labor Day mass at Sacred Heart Church here Monday morning and will make a radio talk Monday night on labor's outlook for the future. . . . The first Labor Day was celebrated in 1882 by the Knights of Labor (a forerunner of the AFL) with a parade in New York City. In 1884 the Knights adopted a resolution that the first Monday in September should be proclaimed Labor

Guest Editorial—

DES MOINES REGISTER: Why People Drive 75 M.P.H. Friend of ours just back from a trip had this all too-familiar observation:

"It's crazy, I know. I started out doing 55 determined to take it easy. Pretty soon I was up to 65 and 70. The car rode so smoothly I did most of the trip at 75."

Our friend is a sober and responsible citizen. He knows he lacks effective control at that speed in an emergency situation. He admits the effortless ride of his modern, up-to-date car lulled him into a false sense of security.

The answer to dangerous speeds doesn't lie in making automobiles any less powerful or less comfortable, though car makers could do more to emphasize safety features. The automotive clock can't and won't be turned back.

The only answer we know is a legally-enforceable speed limit. There will always be law breakers, and there will be speed law violators, too. But a clearly defined limit will at least aid those good citizens who want to abide by law, and are now, undeterred, being carried away by their all-powerful, souped-up new cars.

Thought for Today

I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.—John 16:28.

In this awfully stupendous manner, at which Reason stands aghast, and Faith herself is half confounded, was the grace of God to man at length manifested.—Richard Hurd.

Envied of the World

Faces In The Crowd

I watch the faces in the crowd.
Some dejected, others proud,
Faces aged and gray and lined,
Faces sweet and some unkind;
Hardened faces that seem to show
The only type of life they know,
Faces where love and joy abound,
Faces of babies soft and round,
Children's faces, eager, bright,
Youthful faces with hope and light,
Faces of patience with sorrow's touch,
Bored faces where life gave too much,
Faces with wisdom, good and just,
Faces of people you couldn't trust,
Faces of those who know success,
Others whose hardships brought them less,
Laughing faces and others stern,
Faces that somehow seem to yearn
For a little love, a friendly smile,
As much alone as a barren isle,
Faces that have a look of despair,
Others with smiles for all to share,
Vacant faces that never change,
Faces that tell of lives so strange,
Here in this crowd of people are seen
Faces beautiful, faces serene,
Faces hateful, and mean and bad,
Faces gentle, bewildered, sad,
Milling around on this busy street,
Look I at the faces of those I meet,
And somehow a thought goes through my mind,
What are the stories that lie behind
Each face I watch come near and pass,
Faces, faces, that become a mass
Of all humanity blended there,
All types of people from everywhere,
Whither they come and whither they go,
What of their lives? I will never know,
What of their lives do their faces reveal,
What is the mystery their faces conceal,
Living humans, each with a place,
Yet, God in His Heaven, doth know every face.

Dr. Jordan Says—

Adhesions Frequently Get Blame For Many Ailments

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.
"Adhesions" often receive the blame for all kinds of pains and other symptoms for which no other cause can be found. In doing this people usually have only a vague idea of what adhesions are and what they can do.

Adhesions are made up of tissue much like that of an ordinary scar on the skin. Under the microscope adhesions appear as slightly elastic fibers. This is called fibrous tissue and the body tends to respond to many infections or injuries by forming it. This response is not related to the particular nature of the damage but is mere-

MAURICE HOGAN, who had some children with him out at the Fair, wandered into the Floricultural Building to see the exhibit.

"Look, Daddy," said one of the little girls as soon as they got inside the door, "there are your cutouts."

Hogan looked and sure enough, there was the old woman who lives in a shoe, Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater and Ring-around-the-rosy. On the other side of the room was a little girl he had painted, too. He had painted the cutouts a long time ago for a florist display somewhere else but he didn't know they were being used at the Fair so that exhibit was a real surprise to him.

The little girl knew them right away because she had watched those little nursery rhymes come to life as her father made them, and she was just about the most thrilled youngster at the Fair.

Driving down the highway one day a man began to speed his car up as he got closer to his home town. In the car with him was his 4½-year-old son who noticed the speeding up. He didn't like it very much and when his father continued to go at a speed he considered too fast he gave a little piece of advice: "Don't be a hurry bug—" he said, "slow down and live."—H. L.

ly one of nature's attempts to heal injury.

As an example of adhesion formation, if a patient has acute appendicitis and the appendix has ruptured, spilling the infection into the surrounding tissue, adhesions will often form. The same is true of many other internal infections.

The adhesions, thus formed, may or may not produce complications later on.

The fibrous tissue has a tendency to contract; thus if adhesions have formed around a loop of the intestines, they may draw tighter and tighter, thus preventing the free flow of intestinal contents. This, in turn, can produce symptoms and may require an operation to cut these bands of fibrous tissue and free the partly strangled intestine.

What to do for adhesions depends on where the adhesions are located, what normal structures of the body they surround, and what this contraction is doing to the organs involved.

Mrs. B. asks whether adhesions can be cured without operation. The answer to this is no, but they need not always be operated on unless they are producing symptoms.

She also asks whether adhesions will turn into cancer. The answer to this question also is no, but the physician should always attempt to make certain that any symptoms occurring are truly the result of adhesions and not of cancer in the same vicinity.

Some people tend to develop adhesions much more easily than others. This raises a difficult problem because in such people new adhesions are likely to form even after the old ones have been cut or removed.

Anyone can see that pinning the blame on adhesions is likely to be difficult. Sometimes it can be done only at operation when the region under suspicion comes under the eyes of the surgeon.

As Sedalia Sees It—

MacArthur Disciples May Yet Gild Refined Gold

By JOSEPH A. DEAR

Democrat-Capital

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—If General Douglas MacArthur's splendid reputation is ever seriously tarnished, his chief disciples undoubtedly will deserve the blame.

The clique that surrounds him has rarely been content with mere record, although his illustrious career speaks for itself. Nor has it ever been willing to admit error on his part. It insists on an invidious comparison between MacArthur and lesser mortals. The tendency of its members to portray MacArthur as super-human often leaves a bad taste.

Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, author of MacArthur's "Rendezvous With History," installments of which are now being carried in Life Magazine, is one of MacArthur's warmest admirers. He is also the General's chief spokesman. As such, he once suggested that the late James Forrestal, the first Secretary of Defense, was unbalanced during the last days of World War II. Forrestal, who later committed suicide, had recorded in his Diaries that MacArthur favored the entry of Russia into the Pacific war, an assertion that Whitney was trying to refute.

As Gen. MacArthur's biographer, Whitney affects a breathless, awe-struck style. Thus in recounting the events of June 25, 1950, he has MacArthur roused by news of the North Korean attack. (MacArthur, it seems, had a phone by his bed but none in his office.) "It took only a moment for the impact of the news to sink in," Whitney writes. And he then has the Great Man pacing about his bedroom, pondering the course of things to come.

A very different version of MacArthur's reaction is told by a man, now a high official in the State Department, who talked with him after the floor pacing scene. The General, according to this informant, minimized the episode. He seemed inclined to dismiss the attack as another incident—there had been others — on the touchy border. And he several times disclaimed responsibility, and asked what we were to do. A rhetorical question, apparently.

Note that this version does no discredit to MacArthur. It would diminish his reputation only if the Whitney version were accepted, and then later knocked-down. MacArthur's reputation is endangered most by those who claim too much for him.

News service stories about the installment of the Whitney story made much of the fact that President Truman ordered American ground forces to Korea on recommendation of MacArthur. Recommendation is indeed the word used by Whitney.

But examination of the pertinent paragraph does not justify the use of this word. The message MacArthur cabled Washington after inspecting the Korean front seems to have been an appreciation of the situation. The General said the line couldn't be held unless American ground forces went in. No doubt this message influenced Mr. Truman. And perhaps a "recommendation" would have been no more influential.

(It may be that the full text of the message will justify the use of the word recommendation. But it would be unusual, even for a man of MacArthur's temperament, to recommend that the President follow a particular policy line unless asked to do so.)

Whitney also is at pains to diminish the stature of MacArthur's colleague in arms, General Omar Bradley, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs. MacArthur, Whitney relates, doubted the acceptance of his plan for the Inchon landings. Whitney recalled that Bradley had nine months earlier told a Congressional Committee that "amphibious warfare was outdated and that he could not foresee its use in the future."

This sally is somewhat unfair to Bradley, whose opinion was based on the assumption that the enemy had atomic weapons. Bradley's thoughts were echoed by other distinguished soldiers, including General Montgomery of Britain. Clearly, a concentration of ships and men such as there were at Normandy and also at Inchon, would be a tempting target for an enemy with nuclear devices at his disposal. The North Koreans had none, fortunately.

But Whitney failed to take note of that.

Polio Victim Will Publish 'Polio Living' Magazine

BLOOMINGTON, Illinois — Ray Cheever's dream of giving fellow polio victims a morale booster once a month is close to reality, now that a preview issue of "Polio Living" is off the presses.

It's a 16-page digest-size magazine "for polio patients by polio patients," first of its kind in the medical field. Cheever, a 28-year-old Bloomington polio victim, got the idea for it last year while a patient at Dwight Veterans Hospital at Dwight, Ill.

He hopes to launch his publication on a nationwide circulation basis soon, but right now, his first objective is to line up sufficient advertising to cover cost of publication. Each issue of the monthly magazine will be sent free to more than 25,000 surgeons, therapists, physicians and hospitals caring for polio patients. Such distribution, Cheever feels, eventually will get the magazine into the hands of most polio sufferers.

Designed as a type of "mental therapy" for people with polio, the magazine will feature polio success stories, information on research and special equipment for patients and list jobs open to people who have had polio.

The magazine will feature the personal experience angle in its stories and articles. An endeavor will be made to enable polio patients to find strength and hope through such first-hand accounts, according to Cheever.

With a few hundred dollars and a little more than a year's time invested in "Polio Living," Cheever is anxious to see his publication become a force for the benefit of polio patients. Profits from the magazine will be used to improve rehabilitation facilities for polio patients.

Despite the fact that he is physically handicapped and unable to rise from a sitting position without help, Cheever lives a near normal life.

Since his polio attack almost three years ago, he has concentrated on "doing what I can do and forgetting the things I'm not physically able to do."

Cheever came to a Bloomington insurance firm in March, 1950, as a supervisor of advertising and sales promotion. A Navy veteran of 19 months, he had just finished a sales management course at Northwestern University while holding down three jobs to support his wife and daughter, Sheryl Lynn.

He suffered a near fatal attack of bulbar polio during the fall of 1952. Hospitalized for eight months, he spent 14 weeks in a portable lung at St. Joseph's Hospital in Bloomington.

Three months after he entered the hospital, his wife, Grace, gave birth to their son, Ricky. Late in her pregnancy, doctors performed an emergency tracheotomy on Cheever in an effort to keep an air passage open to his lungs.

Paralyzed from the neck down, Ray lost most of the muscle control in his arms and legs. Thus far, his legs have regained more strength than his arms, which are still weak.

Thankful that he's still alive, that he doesn't need a respirator and that no one else in his family contracted the disease, Ray hopes some day to be able to get rid of his wheel chair. Corrective surgery and several muscle transplants will be necessary before that can happen, however.

Since last summer, when he came up with the idea for his magazine, he has been extremely busy. He's gotten a great deal of help from friends, including other polio victims.

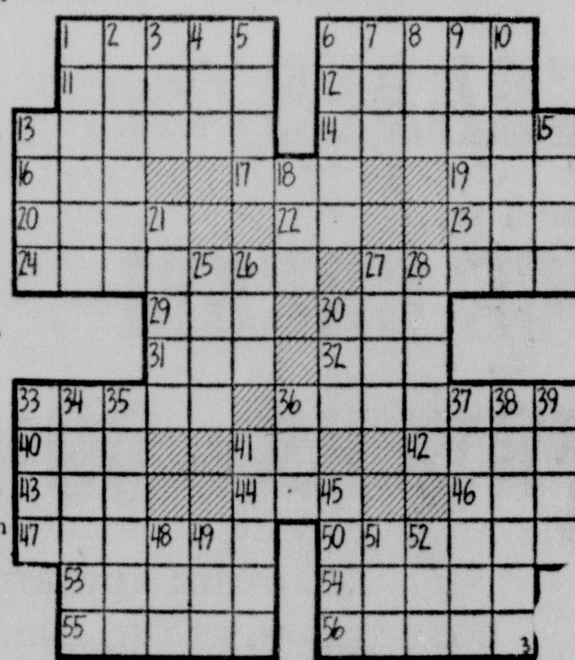

A man with an almost endless chain of ideas, Cheever feels that "Polio Living" could lead him to other areas in the medical field where similar publications might be successful.

Physicists Worked in Secret for a Year On Sending Up Space Satellite from US

By Kenneth O. Gilmore
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — A sandy haired man with blue eyes and an easy going smile has been getting a number of well-meaning complaints from his wife for nearly a year now. He's been spending too much time working away from home late at night.

Now she knows the reason why. It came out with the historic announcement by the White House that this country is planning to launch an earth satellite 200 to 300 miles above the surface of the earth beyond the pull of gravity.

For Dr. Homer E. Newell, Jr., is one of a 14-man group of American physicists who have been quietly and privately studying the practical feasibility of firing a small ball into outer space sometime in 1957 or '58.

After three months of intensive investigation and analysis, these experts on the upper atmosphere and rocketry decided early this spring that the enormous project could be undertaken within the limitations of time, know-how and equipment. As private citizens, they passed this judgment along to the President.

Now they can be counted among today's leading pioneers of outer space, the Fermis, the Szilards, the Einsteins, the Oppenheims and the Tellers of the rocket and satellite age.

"The Special Study Group on the Earth Satellite" was the official title given to this collection of brilliant physicists who began their work on the project around March 1 under the direction of the U. S. National Committee for the International Geophysical Year. As volunteers, they were drawn from the Committee's technical panel on rocketry.

Unofficially, these men designated their undertaking by the code name, Long Playing Rocket, or LPR. This disc-jockey term happened to be coined at one of their first meetings by Dr. Joseph Kaplan, Chairman of the U. S. National Committee. LPR stuck and conveniently served as a secret description of the proposed satellite now publicly tabbed the "bird."

Youth characterizes these physicists, who laid the groundwork for the future propulsion of the basketball size satellite. Their ages averaged approximately 37. Two of them are 30.

All are associated directly or indirectly with high altitude physics. About half are rocket experts and the others authorities on various phases of atmospheric physics.

Some are working for the government. Here are members of the "Special Study Group on the Earth Satellite," with the inclusion of their accomplishments in several cases:

Dr. F. L. Whipple, Dept. of Astronomy, Harvard Univ., chairman; and Dr. Homer E. Newell, Jr., Naval Research Laboratory and vice chairman.

W. Berning, a meteorologist at the Ballistic Research Laboratory, Aberdeen, Md., Proving Ground; and Prof. W. G. Dow of the Electrical Engineering Dept., University of Michigan.

N. C. Gerson and P. Wyckoff of the Geophysics Research Directorate, Air Force, Cambridge, Mass., Research Center.

Dr. B. Haurwitz of New York University; and Dr. Joseph Kaplan, Dept. of Physics, University of California. The latter is a pioneer in the photo-chemistry of atmospheric gases.

Dr. S. F. Singer, Physics Dept., University of Maryland, a cosmic ray expert who stated over a year ago that it was possible to build a satellite somewhat similar to the one now planned.

William Stroud, Evans Signal Laboratory, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; and Dr. J. A. Van Allen, Physics Dept., State University of Iowa.

Three associates of the above men were also part of the project—as consulting rocket experts. They are: William Pickering, Director of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at the California Institute of Technology; and Milton Rosen and John Townsend of the Naval Research Laboratory. Rosen's name is closely connected with the Viking, the streamlined version of the V2 rocket.

Between March and May all of these men worked night and day in a suite of modern offices on the seventh floor of the association's building in downtown Washington. Sometimes their sessions and discussion groups did not break up until near midnight.

At the present time no new group has been formed to draw up detailed plans for the satellite which the military men will then shoot into the atmosphere. This "logistics" task will be the only function of the Defense Department.

In all probability, however, a number of the above listed men will play leading roles in developing LPR. And officials of the U. S. National Committee say that in one way or another they will undoubtedly continue to be associated with the project. Yet they stress that any number of physicists not mentioned here will be likely to be called upon for assistance and advice.

Two more men should be named who have been extremely influential in nourishing the idea of a satellite. They are Alan Shapely, vice-chairman of the USNC, a physicist at the Boulder Laboratories of the National Bureau of Standards; and Dr. Athelstan F. Spilhaus, a member of the committee and dean of the Institute of Technology, University of Minnesota.

Of the scientists who took part in the dramatic satellite project, 40-year-old Dr. Newell is outstanding. A distinguished co-worker calls him "one of the world's foremost authorities on upper air atmosphere physics and rocketry."

Since 1946 he has been Director of the Rocket Upper Air Program at the Naval Research Laboratory.

"Ever since man conceived the idea of launching a rocket, he has hoped some day to send off one that would go out and not come back," says Newell. "And whenever a geophysicist becomes a solar physicist, he itches to get above the atmosphere."

Last October Newell went to Rome with the American delegation to discuss plans with other countries for the coming International Geophysical Year.

"During this meeting," explains Newell, "a small group of us got together and talked over various aspects and problems in connection with a satellite. And we came to the conclusion that the U. S. was near enough the point where it was possible. This was the first real push to get something going."

Newell is the father of four children whose ages range from three to 16. When he has a spare moment he likes to play the piano. But lately he hasn't had much of a chance to do this.

School Buses Driven Back From Georgia

Mr. and Mrs. William Greenwood, Mrs. Gertrude Crockett, Mrs. Delle Corum and her guest, Mrs. Hartley Skinner of Phoenix, Ariz., enjoyed a picnic at the park Thursday evening.

Because of a misunderstanding of the swimming class held at Marshall, June 3 to August 2, an extra class was held for twelve Sweet Springs boys and girls from August 8 to August 31. About 25 were enrolled in the class beginning in June but only twelve of these were able to continue with the lessons after the women here got confused on the dates and missed the entire first class. This is sponsored by the American Red Cross Chapter of Saline County and is held at the swimming pool at Indian Pothill Park in Marshall. The extra class was given one hour lessons on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, making eleven swimming lessons in all. The "Years of Service"

Why do so many businesses advertise their long length of service? Every day you see "Since 1830," "Serving this area 76 years," and similar slogans. It must be because they think people will respect and place their trust in a firm that has existed through the years. They probably reason, too, that people will think a firm that has been in business a long time in the same town must surely be fair and courteous in their dealings.

All this is why we are so proud of our past years of business experience. We've not only stayed in business, but we've grown and expanded our plant. But most important is the experience we've gained. Tigers Defeat A's 11-6

Coast To Victory
Over A's Hurler
Kume Following
8-Run 5th Inning

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 3.—The Detroit Tigers were in a vengeful mood tonight as they sent 13 batters to the plate in an 8-run fifth inning and coasted to a 11-6 victory over Kansas City and rookie right-hander Mike Kume.

The Tigers, who last night dropped their ninth game in 11 starts against the A's, capitalized on Kume's wildness and a pair of errors in their big inning. Kume, who walked four and hit two batters in four innings, gave Earl Torgeson a free ticket and hit Ike Boone with a pitch to start it off. Jimmy Delsing followed with a double to left field and the Tigers were off and running.

Singles by Frank House and Boone, and a double by Fred Hatfield were sprinkled into the debacle but a pair of Athletics errors and another walk made it easier for the Tigers.

Delsing finally ended the parade by flying out to Suitcase Simpson in center field. Bill Harrington and Art Craddock, who came in to pitch after Delsing's double, took most of the battering.

The Athletics made a promising start against Steve Gromek, scoring a pair in the second on singles by Heo Lopez and Joe Astroth and a double by Jerry Schypinski. Gromek departed for a pinch hitter in the fourth after the A's had blasted him for two more runs in the third as Simpson homered with Elmer Valo on base.

Lefty Al Aber came on to get the benefit of the big Tiger fifth inning and take credit for the pitching victory. Lopez socked his 12th home run over the left field fence in the sixth but Aber bore down to get out of a jam when Schypinski and Astroth followed with singles. The tall hurler got pinch hitter Gus Zernial, Vic Power and Jim Finigan on infield pop ups. Enos Slaughter's homer in the ninth was his fifth.

Outfielder Bill Wilson, who may switch to pitching, hurled a scoreless ninth inning for the A's. He struck out Harvey Kuenn in his debut and got Bill Tuttle on a fly but Al Kaline doubled and Torgeson walked before Boone fouled out to Astroth.

Two Deadlocked For Insurance City Open Lead

WETHERSFIELD, Conn., Sept. 3.—Gerry Kesselring of Toronto, Ont., who has been a pro for only 20 months, swept into a first place deadlock with veteran Sam Sneed of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., today at the half way mark of the Insurance City Open golf tournament here.

Kesselring and Sneed have eight under par 134s after 36 holes of the 72-hole test when the field was reduced to the low 60 pros and ties and low 10 amateurs and ties.

A score of 147 qualified the pros for the last two days with amateurs getting 153 or better moving into the last two rounds of the $20,000 event which winds up Labor Day.

Kesselring caught the veteran Sneed late in the afternoon, carding a 66, the Slammer shooting 68 over the par 35-36-71 layout. Sneed was the first day co-leader with Mike Souchak of Grossingers, N.Y.

Souchak, the former Duke football star, slipped back to a tie with an unknown pro, Edward Kringle of North Bergen, N. J., owner of a driving range. They have 136s.

Trailing Souchak and Krinkle is PGA champion Doug Ford of Kiamnesia Lake, N. Y., who had 137 after a 66 one of the two lowest rounds of the day. Deadlocked at 138 are Bill Caster, Jr., San Diego, Calif., and Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif., last year's ICO winner.

Bites the Hand
EVANSTON, Ill. (P)—Topsy had a good reason for biting her master twice on the left hand.

Jack Van Dermeir, 22, was washing some automobile parts in a gasoline line in a filling station. The pail of gasoline caught fire and Van Dermeir tossed the mass of flames through the door just as Topsy, his dog, was passing it. Van Dermeir then chased Topsy, trying to put out the flames. When he caught her she bit him, putting him in a hospital.

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—Wes Santee, top-ranking U. S. runner, romped to an easy victory in the one-mile invitational event today at the Canadian National Exhibition Interprovincial track meet. His time was 4:11.

The former University of Kansas star crossed the finish line far ahead of the five-man field. With no one to pace him, the U. S. miller took over the lead in the third quarter and was never challenged.

Dick Carmichael of Toronto Olympic Club finished second. Santee's half-mile time was 2:07.

BOWLING

Nelson Scores Well As Bowling Opens

The 1935-36 bowling season opened with a bang as for Glen Nelson is concerned. Nelson scattered the ten-pins for a total of 630 in his first three games of the season.

He bunched together 223 for his first game, 195 for the second and 212 in the third for the 630 total. Other bowlers are in for some hard practice and settling down from vacation to get back in form for the season. Early scores were not "too hot" for the opening of the season, it was reported.

Big Game Hunt Seeks An Illinois 'Panther'

KEWANEE, Ill. (P)—A big game hunt is on today in Henry County in northwestern Illinois.

The subject of the search by a posse of citizens is an animal resembling a panther. Farmer Bert Berry and others saw the big cat in one of Berry's fields six miles east of Kewanee Friday.

Berry went to his house and grabbed a gun. He shot at the animal, but missed and it fled into the woods. The creature was first sighted about two weeks ago. Some who saw it thought it was a panther.

Legion Team 3-0;
Play Again Today

The Sedalia Jaycees, second in the Marshall Tournament, defeated the Braymer (Mo.) Legion in the State Softball Tournament being played at Springfield 3-0, Saturday afternoon. The Jaycees will play their next game in the state meet at 3:30 p. m. today.

Behind the two-hit pitching of Joe Baudoin, the Sedalians were able to get three runs and hold to the margin throughout the tilt.

This afternoon they meet the strong Goetz Brewery team of St. Joseph.

Last Thursday night the Jaycees meeting Lexington dropped the championship game 1-2 in a well played game on the part of both clubs.

The lone score of the Jaycees was by second baseman Don Richardson who smashed a circuit drive. However what appeared a trip to victory came in the bottom of the seventh inning when two Sedalia players were safe on second and third. With two outs, and George Thompson came to the plate and hit a smashing drive which went directly to shortstop for the third out.

Both the first place and second place winners of the tournament were eligible to enter the State Tournament with the Jaycees pulling in the first game Saturday.

Ed Schnakenberg, pitching for Sedalia, gave up but two hits but both were bunched in the same inning when most needed. The Lexington pitcher allowed the Sedalians three hits, but scattered so they were not too effective.

Cardinals End Losing Skein, Trip Cubs 3-2

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The St. Louis Cardinals, paced by Stan Musial, scored three runs in the first inning today and hung on despite a flurry of Chicago Cub hits to win, 3-2, and end a four-game losing streak.

Errors by Cub outfielders Jimmy Bolger and Hank Sauer, making his first start since Aug. 12, helped the Cardinals to two of the runs. St. Louis used half of its eight hits to chase starter Bob Rush.

The Cubs, who made 13 hits, 12 of them off starter and winner Harvey Haddix, settled for two single runs in bowing to the Cardinals a sixth time in 18 games.

Solly Hemus, starting at third base, opened the game by walking. Wally Moon singled to center. When Bolger fumbled the ball Hemus scored and Moon continued to third.

Musial's single scored Moon. Musial scored the final St. Louis run when Bill Virdon singled and Sauer muffed the recovery.

The first of Dee Fondy's two doubles, and successive flies to Gene Baker and Eddie Miksis accounted for the first Chicago run in the fifth.

The second came in the sixth on three straight singles with two out. Fondy used his third straight hit, a single, to knock in the run. Larry Jackson rescued Haddix.

Red Schoendienst left the game in the third inning. He bruised the big toe on his right foot after missing a pitch at the plate.

USTA Foresees Marks
Set In Harness Races
Attendance, Betting

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 3.—The U. S. Trotting Assn. today said harness racing across the nation appears certain to set all-time records in both attendance and pari-mutuel betting. The announcement came with only about two-third of the 1935 season completed.

The USTA said the upswing in trotting and pacing has been especially strong in California, Massachusetts, metropolitan New York City and western New York state, Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland.

Last season, 10,147,255 spectators attended pari-mutuel tracks and wagered $444,845,200 of which the various states split up $31,767,468. An estimated 10 million saw races at non-betting tracks.

Sports Scraps

(By D. Kelly Scruton)

BASEBALL season is over. Sports locally now switch to the gridiron and bowling, and there will be plenty to run down. We had a lot of baseball around here this summer in Little League, Babe Ruth League, and Ban Johnson baseball.

Incidentally speaking of Ban Johnson baseball. The Chiefs started off in a bad way, didn't get warmed up until July and made a smashing finish, boosting their victories for the year to 23. The let down in the play-off last week was something. But I must say with the team rounded up for the final tilt at Jefferson City had greater spirit than the boys displayed on Wednesday night, according to all reports and with the assistance of three Babe Ruth players who made the trip, they were playing hard, but the "get-together" team wasn't enough to stop the Bears from the Capitol City.

Yes, I gave them a "spanking" this week for their exhibition last Wednesday. In fact, a couple of the boys remarked "well we had it coming." Yet, the boys who finished out the season did play hard.

Several of the boys who played during the season have left for college, some are out for football at these colleges, and it was almost impossible for several to get back to finish out the season. In the past several games the Chiefs did play with but ten players, with the pitchers working on the infield and outfield, which wasn't good although they did come through with victories.

These B.J. play-offs should be held the second week of August. First, the third week usually comes up with the State Fair and any number of the boys have to work. It gives them that opportunity to pick up a few dollars before school starts. Then there are those who are leaving for college and didn't get back for the last part of the month. No hard feelings fellows, especially to those who did try and play.

THE Smith-Cotton Tigers open the season on Friday Sept. 16 on the St. Joseph gridiron. It will be a good "tester" for the Tigers who then come home for the opening of the season in Sedalia on Friday, Sept. 23, when they clash with the Springfield Central High on the gridiron at the Jennie Jaynes Memorial Stadium.

Looking over the prospects of the 1935 Tigers, they don't look too bad. In fact the Tigers have a good appearing team. The bunch of boys are apparently taking in all the "dope" being poured into their ears by Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow and his assistants. They looked mighty big in their practice uniforms the past week and their bigness was not showing much awkwardness in the boys, and what did show up will no doubt be ironed out before the home game at least.

Sedalia is looking forward to a Central Missouri Conference championship for 1935.

Coach Oral L. Stiegmeier of the Central Eagles isn't so dumb when he announced a switch in time for his Homecoming Game on Nov. 5 from afternoon to 10 a. m. in the morning. He's looking for a good attendance for his homecoming even if it is an A. M. tilt.

With the Homecoming game set for Nov. 5, there was a big chance it would lose a lot of the Alumni and other football fans who would be torn between an Eagle Homecoming and a battle in the Big Seven Conference.

That's the day the BIG GAME at the University of Missouri will be played. Yes it is Tigers vs. Sooners from Oklahoma, the pick of many sports writers for the Nation's No. 1 team of 1935, that is Oklahoma.

By switching the time he is almost assured of a good majority of fans stopping by to see the morning game and then after a "snack" hurrying right down the highway to Columbia to see the M. U. and O. U. game.

Maybe some of the other smaller colleges which have been meeting up with University competition, could take a hint from this switch when they have a Saturday game scheduled. It might help attendance. They'll know Nov. 5, at Fayette.

IT is interesting to note Oklahoma Sooners have been picked as the No. 1 football team of the nation for 1935 by Fred Russell, veteran sports writer, and Missouri Tigers are named by him in the above-average ratings for the season. This is reviewed by Russell in the Saturday Evening Post's 16th annual "Pisikin Review."

In reviewing the teams of the nations he pointed out that Bud Wilkinson's charges as expected to repeat as the Big Seven Conference champions. Incidentally, the Sooners have gone 47 games in the conference without a defeat and they have established an all-time high consecutive game record of 95 games without a defeat. Russell says that their seven-year reign within the country's top ten teams is unparalleled.

The Sooners are also awarded one place on Russell's All-American team which lines up as follows: ends, Ron Beagle, Navy, and Ron Kramer, Michigan; tackles, Eddie Rayburn, Rice, and Bruce Bosley, West Virginia; guards, Calvin Jones, Iowa, and Bo Bolinger, Oklahoma; center, Bob Pellegrini, Maryland; backs, George Welsh, Navy, Howard Cassidy, Ohio State, Joe Childress, Auburn, and Bob Davenport, U. C. L. A.

Sports Locally And Around World Change To Football

The sports scene around the world now lies in a peculiar stage which takes place at this same time every year.

In the United States the last big golf tournaments have been scheduled around the northern states as the golfers get ready to "follow the sun" into the south for the winter sessions on the warmer links.

Here too, baseball is closing in on the climax of the world series for the majors, who have a little over two weeks of the regular schedule remaining before the top teams in the two leagues meet for the world championship pennant.

Tennis has been wrapped up as far as the big dates are concerned and the United States took a crushing blow from Australia in the Davis Cup play, with one of the strongest teams we have had in many seasons.

Football is now on the horizon with all of the colleges deep in practice sessions awaiting the opening games which are scheduled for the middle of this month.

The pros in the autumn sport have already tucked away one big game and are ready to start their regular season.

As the chilly breezes that often accompany Labor Day arrive in some parts of the land the swimmers have turned to indoor feats where possible and some of the big stars have headed for the south to keep in training.

Track is still far off from actual competition but not from the thoughts of its fans, who look forward to a running of Santee at the Orange Bowl track meet on New Year's Day.

Boxing is taking on momentum with the approaching heavyweight title bout between Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore.

Horse Racing has gone over the crest of the season with the track shaking victory of Nashua over Swaps in the match race held in Chicago during the past week.

And all down the line throughout the country a sport is either nearing its final big push or is just making itself noticed for the beginning of the season. The situation isn't just peculiar to the United States it is evident to the world over.

In Germany the fans of the Weltmeister Fussball team, which is their world champion soccer club, are anticipating what this sport will hold for their country this year. All over the countryside youngsters will be arriving at the soccer courts either in the city or in a cleared section of a forest in the country to give local fans a preview of their sandlot variety.

In Switzerland the sportsmen will be soon making their way into the Alps for skiing and curling, which is an ice version of shuffleboard, very popular there.

The days will grow longer for the Spanish, who are seeing the final processions into the bull rings in Madrid and Barcelona as the season draws to a close.

Youngsters in Austria will now be watching more eagerly than ever, now that their country is free, for the snowy slopes of the hills in the Vienna Woods where they can ski until their hearts are content.

In England the sound of the horns from the horse race will be dying away, but the new sound of the hunting horns for fox hunts will be rising. The cricket fans will also be preparing for a full season of sports.

Japan will witness the ebb of its baseball season and will turn its thoughts to basketball, another sport being popularized there by American service men.

In fact in every country whether the seasons change or not some varied activity will pop up on the sports scene.

The trend is no different on the local sports scene.

Here the baseball season is completed with a very successful season behind us. The Little League and Babe Ruth Leagues played to large crowds the whole season, but now their stadiums are dark at night. The Industrial league provided the thrills for the softball teams, their playing field is also dark. The Chiefs have just completed a most successful season by winning the second half pennant for their league, though they lost the final season playoff to Jefferson City.

The swimming days for the local water enthusiasts are about over, as the pools are to close after Labor Day.

The new tennis courts are still open at Liberty Park, but it is only a short time before weather conditions will drive the local tennis players away from their sport.

The variety of sports made available by the state fair have passed away with the fair itself.

But like the other countries when something disappears on the sports scene we have another sport to take its place. Here the sport fans are turning to football, which will open in the local high school the 16th of this month and bowling, which has already taken an organized start.

This lull in the sports scene can mean only one thing, fall is upon us and our entertainment will change accordingly.

Richardson Drops Kauder In US Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 3 (AP)—Third-seeded Hamilton Richardson fought off five match points and scrambled back to a dramatic, two and a half hour victory over unknown Edward Kauder of San Bernardino, Calif., today in the first round of the National Tennis Championships.

The final score was 6-2, 3-6, 9-11, 10-8, 6-0. Kauder folding up completely in the final set after almost collapsing from leg cramps.

The turning point in the stirring stadium match came in the 14th game of the fourth set when the rangy Californian, a little known public parks player, seized a 7-6 lead and poured three big services down Richardson's throat for a 40-0 advantage.

This gave him three shots at the match with a service which had whistled past the 22-year-old Baton Rouge, La., Davis Cup ace through-out the afternoon.

But Richardson dropped a lob which kicked up the lime on the back line. Then Kauder, a six-foot-three giant, netted a ball and over-shot the baseline to make it deuce.

At this point Kauder's legs crumbled and he had to stiffen himself to keep from falling on the court. He hobbled back to the baseline and shot a bullet service past Richardson for another advantage and match point. But Richardson levelled the count with a fine passing shot.

Kauder, a 28-year-old graduate student at UCLA who served in the Navy, powered a service to a fifth advantage but outed a back-hand and that was his final chance.

Unsteady on buckling legs, the towering West Coast slugger double-faulted to give Richardson the advantage and then he fell sprawling to the court in an unsuccessful attempt to reach a sharply angled Richardson volley.

Richardson broke Kauder again in the 18th game of the fourth set to level the match and at two sets each then raced through the final set easily, with all of Kauder's fight and energy sapped.

It was a battle of tremendous services which produced 100 and 101 aces—55 for Kauder to 46 for Richardson—and 32 doublefaults, 25 by Kauder.

The average thunderstorm releases 50 times the energy of the first atomic bomb.

PTA Endorses Referendum, Student Aid

The Parent-Teacher Association of Smith - Cotton High School, through a pre-school executive committee meeting Thursday night at the high school, endorsed Referendum 2, the public school foundation program. Mrs. L. E. Sheridan, president, announced that a resolution was adopted urging a positive vote for the Referendum Oct. 4. Other important matters were also discussed.

The public school foundation program is a plan for increased state school monies and is designed for their effective use. It will help meet realistically the critical problems of soaring school enrollments, overcrowded classrooms, and securing qualified teachers. Mrs. Sheridan said that the schools were operating under a set of laws about 25 years old, and new laws were needed for contemporary problems.

The adoption of this program would raise Missouri's rank in expenditure per pupil from 31st among the states to 21st. In percentage of income used for educational purposes, Missouri would rank 32nd among the states rather than the present rank of 42nd.

Pinkney Miller, co-chairman of the group, urged a large turnout at the polls Oct. 4.

Mrs. Sheridan opened the meeting by welcoming new members of the executive committee, and Marvin Maune and James Swafford, members of the student council.

A balance of $274.67 was reported, after auditing the books. Dates for the four required meetings were set for the second Thursday of October, December, February and April. Mrs. Howard Gwinn, parent education chairman, asked for discussion on the parent education classes, and these meetings were slated for September, November, January and March.

Good Corn Storage Needs Forethought To Be Successful

Good storage for corn which farmers expect to place under price support loan may be a problem this fall, according to Carl E. Johnson, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. The prospect of a large corn crop this year indicates that all farmers in Pettis County who expect to use the corn price support program should be sure they have enough crib space to adequately store this corn.

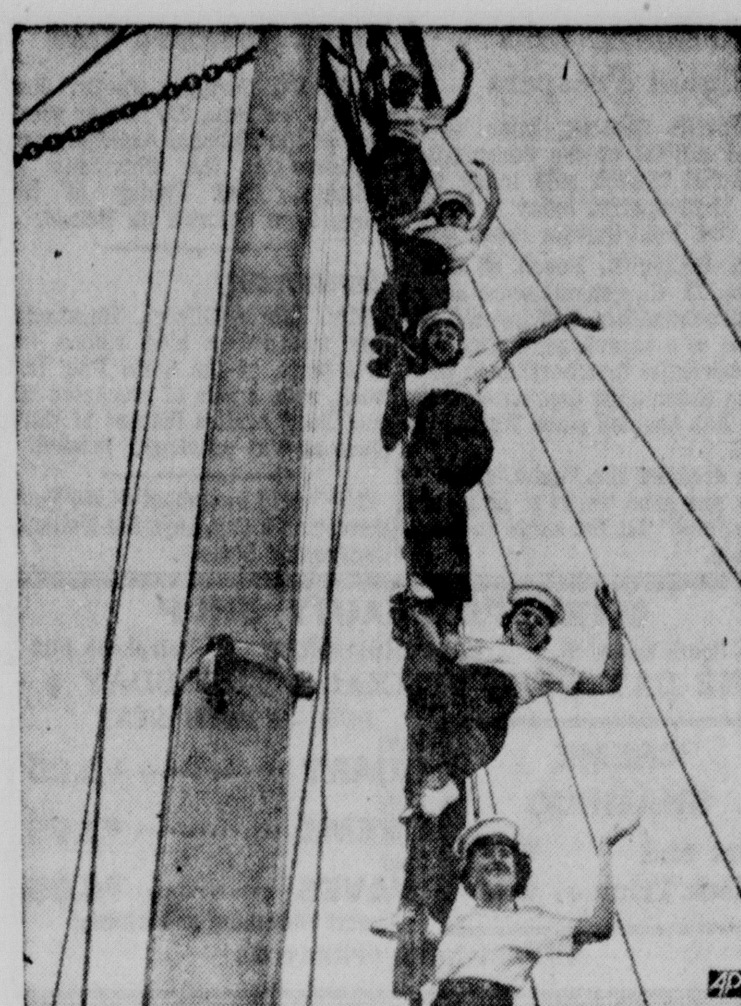

To be eligible for price support in the commercial corn area, a producer must have complied with his farm corn acreage allotment and the corn must be stored in suitable storage.

Killed After Cow Is Struck By Auto

GREENVILLE, Mo. (AP)—Arnold Hardwick, 48, of Milton Ill., was killed Friday night and three other members of his family injured when a cow was knocked into the path of their car by another auto.

Hardwick's wife, Hazel, was taken to a Poplar Bluff hospital for treatment. His son, Deneen and daughter-in-law, Jo Ann, were slightly hurt.

Officers said the accident occurred five miles south of Greenville on Highway 67 when a car driven by John Howe of Broseley, Mo., hit the cow and knocked the animal into the path of the oncoming Hardwick auto. Howe escaped injury. The cow was killed.

Do-It-Yourself Lamp Is Travel Poster Display

By Kay Sherwood
NEA Staff Writer

A touch of "old world" atmosphere can be put into a dreary apartment or the basement recreation room and leave change from a 10-dollar bill. Set the pace with posters. After all, you don't need to go to France to collect a handsome travel poster of one of La Belle's famous landmarks. Nor need you have a ringside seat at the bull fight to acquire a Spanish advertisement of the event. And it's not necessary to stroll

There's a real kick in store for you if you redecorate a corner of the living room or recreation room with travel posters and a lamp made from old cognac bottle. Lamp adapter makes wiring no job at all; liqueur labels or travel stickers add an adventurous note to the parchment-type shade.

the English countryside to pin up a brilliantly colored view of same.

Foreign tourist offices, travel companies and agencies can be persuaded to part with a poster or two. If you'll take a few minutes at the public library to look through ads in the backs of literary magazines you can locate mail-order houses that sell posters by the bundle.

A few years ago when I was a career girl (turned homemaker) it was considered atmospheric as all get out to stick a candle in an Italian wine bottle and plant it on a red-checked tablecloth. Mine never quite achieved the interesting, multicolored candle drippings I thought so provincial and gay. And I spent a lot of time scraping tallow off the cloth.

Today's version, the cognac brandy-bottle lamp complete with a shade racy decorated with foreign labels is to my mind, just as good looking and considerably more practical.

I hasten to add that you don't need to drink up the contents to get the empty bottle. Empty cog-actual cost.

She plays up the lamp on a table below a poster acquired from the French tourist office of a scene from the cognac-producing area. A similar idea could be played on another theme. Luggage stickers from steamship companies or airlines could decorate the shade and take their cue from a vivid ship or air travel poster.

Hal Boyle's Column-- A Backward Glance Recalls Jap Minister Ten Years Ago

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—How can America most help Japan to become prosperous and build up her armed forces to protect herself?

This is a major diplomatic problem today which Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu and his beautiful daughter are trying to solve during a visit here.

Shigemitsu, one of the friendliest faces the Japanese empire has turned toward the United States in a time when it has felt friendship was important, had a leg blown off in Shanghai during the Japanese effort to pacify the Chinese.

Shigemitsu, convicted as a war criminal, now is his nation's most popular political salesman in America.

Our situations do change. Ten years ago today, I wrote the following dispatch from the deck of the battleship Missouri:

"There were four tingling moments of high drama in the 18-minute ceremony during which Japan bound herself to lay down her arms unconditionally and bow to the dictates of the Allies.

"The setting was perfect—on the captain's promenade of this battleship, nicknamed 'Mighty Mo.' Allied ships ringed the Missouri in concentric circles of power. Outlined against the murky sky were dark green hills of a nation being occupied for the first time in its turbulent history.

"The first moment of drama came when Gen. MacArthur walked across the gangplank and moved across the deck with a stride lithe for a man of his years. You could feel the intensity of this man stimulate the crowd like a current of electricity. It was MacArthur's hour of a lifetime, and he had prepared for it by almost half a century of military service.

"The next moment of emotional impact was the arrival of the Japanese delegation—four in civilian dress, seven wearing navy or army uniforms. They stood awaiting MacArthur's pleasure like stone gargoyles.

"Their stolid features showed neither guilt nor regret, pain nor resentment — only an abiding, watchful, animal, animal-like patience. You felt that only time would reveal what the patience stood for.

"How did those little men ever think they could get away with it?" one white uniformed sailor whispered.

"The third highlight came when MacArthur began signing the surrender documents. He turned to Gen. Wainwright with a warm smile and handed him the first of the six pens he used. Then he looked deliberately, steadily and coldly at the Japanese before going on with the signing. That gesture was for Bataan, for Corregidor—and the Japanese caught its significance.

"Silence fell over the spectators as the two Japanese signatories put their names to the documents. They signed with Oriental slowness. Doffing his black silk topper, Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu sat with his wooden leg stiffly extended before him. The diplomat missed the inkwell with the first thrust of his pen. Then he laboriously scrawled his name on both documents—a copy for the Allies, one for Japan.

"The right hand of Gen. Hosihiro Umezo, Japanese army chief of staff, shook slightly as he added his signature. Noting the rainbow row of ribbons on his dress uniform, an American spectator wisely cracked: 'Whipped everybody but the United States.'

"The Allied signatories signed quickly, one after the other.

"Let us pray," said MacArthur, "that the peace be now restored to the world and that God will preserve it always. These proceedings are closed."

"The worldwide blood bath at last was at an end.

"Then came the spine-tingling climax. Forty-six great-winged Superfortresses swept over the fleet like high graceful birds. A1 behind them roared the 3rd Fleet's fighters, dive-bombers and torpedo planes.

"They flew over the massed decks of the Missouri in wave after wave after wave, until the whole bay thr o b b e d. The battleship seemed almost to rock with the sound of their passing. There never was a more stirring flight, and it shook the hearts of the sailors and soldiers. It choked them with the pride of kinship in victory and made them feel as if they were swallowing their stomachs.

"There is no way to describe that mystic exultation. It gripped everyone. You felt suddenly that the ink on the documents, lying momentarily forgotten on the table, meant nothing. And that the men who had signed were no more than symbols.

"You felt, in your whole being suddenly, how peace had been grandly won—by the toil and blood of those airmen in the sky and

Nine Presidents Bring a Rose—'A Bouquet to You' Is Theme Of Garden Club Installation

An unusual and beautiful installation ceremony was used Friday by Mrs. Henry I. Eager of Kansas City, president of the Missouri Federation of Garden Clubs, in installing the new officers of the Council of Sedalia Garden Clubs, the presidents of the nine clubs and their officers. The installation was woven around the theme of the entire luncheon meeting, "A Bouquet to You."

Mrs. Roy Gerster was installed as president of the Sedalia Garden Club Council for the next two years and with her, her officers. They are: First vice-president, Mrs. A. H. Bratten; second vice-president, Mrs. Paul Read; third vice-president, Mrs. W. B. Rich; fourth vice-president, Mrs. Al Schreiner; recording secretary, Mrs. James Atkinson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Weinrich; treasurer, Mrs. H. C. Johnson; parliamentarian, Mrs. L. H. Hodges, historian, Mrs. Ida Harman and auditor, Mrs. R. J. Hausam. The gavel was presented to Mrs. Gerster by Mrs. J. W. Boger, retiring president.

The presidents of the nine clubs and their officers were then installed with the retiring presidents of each club presenting the gavel, on which were tied flowers, to the new presidents.

It was then that each of the new presidents as Mrs. Eager called for their club, picked up the red rose at their place, took it to the speaker's table and handed it to Mrs. Eager.

"This is another two years in your Garden Club Council," Mrs. Eager told the members of the organization, "another two years of progress." "This day," she pointed out, "is to link the old administration with the new, the past administration," she said, "has forced a strong link into the chain of progress."

"Mrs. Gerster," she told the new president, "you have a great responsibility, but you have been chosen for your qualities of leadership."

Mrs. Eager then picked up the roses that had been brought to her by each of the nine club presidents. The rose, she said, has beauty, color and fragrance, it is a favorite of all. It may be enjoyed by the poor and the rich alike. As each of these roses compliments the other so will each club make your Council complete. In these roses are beauty, naturalness, simplicity, all of the things to make them complete and so in your clubs you will find ability, charm, love and all the qualities that will make your two years happy and successful. Each year in growing roses there will be less thorns and more beauty. As you arrange your bouquet of roses in the way you like best, so may you arrange your nine Garden Clubs. With that Mrs. Eager then handed to Mrs. Gerster the red roses with: "I give to you your bouquet of flowers."

Mrs. Herbert Seifert, one of the seven Past Council Presidents, presided at the meeting which opened with music by Mrs. Paul Berthouex, invocation by Mrs. Irwin Raut, and the singing of "America the Beautiful," by Mrs. E. F. Yancey.

Reports were given by Mrs. R. T. Phelan, auditor, and Mrs. Fred Kueck, State Fair chairman, Mrs. Kueck announced that Club 1, received one third, Club 2, two firsts; Club 3, one first; Club 4, one first and one third; Club 5, one fourth; Club 6, one third; Club 7, one first and one third; Club 8, one first and one second and Club nine, one second and one third, in prizes at the recent Missouri State Fair.

A wonderful report of many activities during her two years were given by Mrs. J. W. Boger, the retiring Council president, as well as the ground work for some future work. The arrangements have been made, Mrs. Boger told the group, for a memorial rose garden at Liberty Park. Among the things, accomplished during the two years were the four highway signs designating this as a Garden Club City, two conservation programs, one spring flower show, a fall flower show, the establishment of the Garden Center at the public library, flower arrangement schools, roadside park beautification, Junior Garden Club work, State Fair flower shows, Christmas arrangement shows, the joining of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and many other things.

At the close of the report, Mrs. Boger, who has nejoyed to the fullest her two years of work as

An Early Christmas For Cancer Victim

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Christmas will come this Sunday to the home here of Mr. and Mrs. John Pound.

There will be the proverbial turkey and fruit cake. The Pounds their three daughters — Alix, 12; Marlys, 7 and 2½-year-old Leslee — will exchange gifts and some relatives will be visiting.

All because Alix, stricken by cancer isn't expected to live until Dec. 25. Mrs. Pound says the girl probably is alive today "only because of her faith in God."

Alix weighed 83 pounds last Christmas but the malignancy has wasted her body down to 43. Two weeks ago her eyesight failed.

Council president, went to the piano and played and sang, "The End of A Perfect Day."

Mrs. Gerster told briefly of her hopes and plans for the next two years and presented Mrs. Boger with a gift from the members of her board. Mrs. Boger was then welcomed into the Past Council Presidents Club, by Mrs. L. H. Hodges.

Mrs. T. E. Gasperson sang "In My Garden" dedicated to the new president, Mrs. Gerster. She was accompanied by Mrs. Paul Berthouex.

The meeting closed with all singing "Till We Meet Again" led by Mrs. Yancey. The luncheon meeting was planned by the Past Council Presidents, Mrs. C. L. Carter, Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, Mrs. T. H. Yount, Mrs. Herbert Seifert, Mrs. J. C. Saunders, Mrs. Oscar DeWolf and Mrs. L. H. Hodges. Low arrangements of flowers in green bowls resembled nosegays with a large zinnia surrounded by tiny zinnias and edged with ageratum. Favors were crepe paper nosegays in many different shades, and on the piano was a large basket of pink zinnias. Officers of the Council and the presidents of the nine clubs were all presented with corsages.

The presidents of the nine clubs are: Club 1, Mrs. G. G. Hopkins, Club 2, Mrs. Harold Dean; Club 3, Mrs. B. Y. Edelen; Club 4, Mrs. Fred Brink; Club 5, Mrs. R. V. Miller; Club 6, Mrs. Paul Berthouex; Club 8, Mrs. E. J. Thomas; Club 8, Mrs. James Ryan and Club 9, Mrs. R. A. Enochs.

Boston College Reports Two Quakes

WESTON, Mass. — Two earthquakes were recorded Saturday at the Boston College seismograph station.

The Rev. Daniel Linehan said the first registered at 12:28.15 a.m. was about 1.585 miles south, near the Dominican Republic in the Caribbean Sea.

The second was recorded at 7:42.52 a.m., about 2,200 miles to the southwest which the priest said probably would place it in Guatemala or El Salvador.

Dies In Car Forced Off Road by Passer

WENTZVILLE, Mo. — John Breece, 6-year-old St. Louis County boy, was killed and four members of his family hurt Saturday when their car ran off U.S. Highways 40-61 five miles south of here and overturned.

The Missouri highway patrol said the boy's father, Lee K. Breece of Clayton, apparently was forced off the road by another car that had started to pass him before meeting a third car on a hill.

The car did not stop after the accident, the patrol said.

Jackie Cooper Climbs Rough Adult Trail

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD — Jackie Cooper, after 30 years of showbusiness stardom, finally has something working for him for the first time. Jackie, only 33 now, owns a piece of "The People's Choice," a television comedy series which stars him and debuts Oct. 6 over NBC-TV.

This good financial fortune for Jackie stems from the fact that he is one of the few Hollywood stars who ever looked at himself objectively.

Jackie, of course, was one of the greatest of all child stars and a box-office mint for MGM. Then he grew up, served in the Navy and came back to town to become an actor. It was the lowest ebb of a fabulous career.

"I was a confused, insecure young man," he recalls. "I became bitterly resentful of people who used to slap me on the shoulder and say, 'I remember you in 'The Champ'—you were great.'"

"I wasn't great. The directors were great. I was just a kid who did what he was told. And what I wasn't told to do was done for me."

Came 1947 and he tested for a big part in a movie with Spencer Tracy.

"I was 25 at the time and the part called for a 21-year-old. I thought I should have got it but I didn't. Robert Walker got it instead."

"When I saw the picture on the screen, I knew why. Although I was 25, my thinking was immature and so was my acting. I knew why the director passed me in the test. At 25, I was even too immature to play a 21-year-old."

Cooper then did something few big stars would admit to doing.

"I went back east, worked in summer stock for less than peanuts. Did live television in the early days for $200 a throw. I knew if I wanted to make acting my life's work, I had better get the tools."

He did. In fact, he says his greatest experience as an actor was the year and a half he toured this country and England as Ensign Pulver in the national company of "Mr. Roberts."

This is quite an admission from the kid who was nominated for an Academy award in 1930—not as a child but as one of the year's best actors for "Skippy."

Albanians Light Up The Corfu Straits

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Press reports reaching Athens today said the Albanians have installed powerful searchlights in the Corfu Straits, where two British destroyers were fired on and 42 crewmen killed in 1946.

The reports noted "unusual activity and exceptional measures" in the straits, which are heavily mined.

The straits have been closed to foreign shipping since Britain won her case against Albania in the International Court at The Hague. She was awarded $2,470,000 damages but has never received a penny.

The Corfu incident, occurred when the destroyers Saumarez and Volage ran into a minefield and were fired on by Albanian shore batteries.

Cyprus Policemen Tied Up and Robbed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—About 20 heavily armed masked men attacked a police station near Famagusta early Saturday, tied up 8 policemen and escaped with a load of arms and ammunition.

Meanwhile, British authorities transferred 83 suspected terrorists from the central prison in Nicosia to the ancient Crusader Castle at Kyrenia, where enemy aliens were held during the war.

The transfer followed a noisy demonstration last night by the men, who shouted union with Greece slogans.

Clerk Leaves a Trail

LONDON (AP)—A clerk walked away from a city bank Friday leaving a trail of one pound ($2.80) notes.

The money, part of his firm's payroll, slipped from inside his jacket and fluttered to the ground as he walked. Passers-by chased the notes and the red-faced clerk—he wouldn't give his name—went back to the bank clutching a fistful. He got them all back.

Neutral Inspectors Reduced in Korea

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—The cut-back in neutral nation inspection teams operating in South Korea will go into effect next Tuesday, it was announced today.

Maj. Gen. Harlan C. Parks, senior U. N. member of the Neutral Nation Supervisory Commission, said the teams at Taegu and Kangnung will be pulled out entirely. The teams at Pusan, Kunsan and Inchon will be cut by at least 50 per cent.

The reduction was authorized by the Military Armistice Commission Aug. 29. Representatives of Sweden, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia and Poland are on each truce team.

Services to Atone For Theft of Hosts

BELLEVIEW, Ill. (AP)—Roman Catholics throughout southern Illinois will attend special services Sunday to atone for "desecration of the sacred hosts"—the theft of consecrated altar bread.

The call for an hour of reparation was issued yesterday by Bishop Albert R. Zuroweste of the Belleville Diocese.

Someone broke into the tabernacle of the altar at St. Patrick's Church in Tipton, Ill., eight days ago and took the blessed sacrament, several sacred vessels and a sick call set of holy oils.

Monroe County authorities expressed belief the thief was bent on robbery, and not deliberate desecration. Two Protestant churches in the area have been broken into in recent weeks.

Sun Cookers Exported
NEW DELHI (AP) — India is exporting its solar cookers—developed by a government laboratory to use the sun's heat for cooking—to Africa.

The government of South Rhodesia has ordered four cookers from India as part of a research program to find a substitute for wood fuel because of a shortage of timber.

Tough Wheelbarrow
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Ansel W. Hodges, 42, had cuts and bruises on his face and head after a tire on a wheelbarrow exploded and threw the wheel into his face.

Trouble Takes Taxi

FARMINGTON, N. M. (AP) — The troubles and tribulations of a taxicab operator, E. E. Shipley, recently told the town trustees, are almost unlimited.

Appearing to talk about a new franchise, Shipley told the town fathers that it's automatic when someone loses something, it was lost in the cab he took home — but they may not tell anyone for several days. He told of town housewives ganging up to beat a 10 cent extra charge for hauling the week's groceries home — and said he now has a practice of charging 10 cents extra per bag of groceries. He says a customer calls to ask the fare to his home "about a mile and a half from town", winds up kicking because the fare is so high when he takes the cab seven miles from town.

But the real straw, Shipley said, was the Texan who accused him of stealing his turnip greens.

Time's Not Refuse

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — L. M. Greenwood, a plumber, filed a $2.95 claim against the city. That, he charged, is what it cost his business in loss of time when one of his trucks was held up for 30 minutes by a city refuse truck. "The city truck," he complained, "was parked squarely in the center of the street while the driver read comic books."

Time Restored

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — New Yorkers can tell the time of day again just by looking across the Hudson River. The clock atop a soap factory's roof — a 30-year-old landmark on the west bank of the Hudson—has been repaired. The clock is 50 feet in diameter — twice the size of London's famed Big Ben.

New Egg Law Requires All Graded Eggs

Leonard Voss

UM Extension Poultry Specialist

The new Egg Law requires that all eggs sold to consumers be sold on a graded basis both as to size and quality. The quality grades are AA, A, B, and C, and the sizes are jumbo, extra large, large, medium, small, and peewee. Any size may be combined with any grade quality so that the grade label of eggs indicates not only quality but also size.

There is no provision in the new law for unclassified eggs which can be purchased at retail. These unclassified eggs range all the way from excellent eggs to very poor eggs. It would be safe to say that the comparable grade to unclassified under the new law is grade C. The unclassified eggs sold presently may be better or worse than a grade C egg would be.

Consumer surveys in the past have shown that most consumers will not take readily to a grade C egg and will not buy it in as large a quantity as they would buy unclassified eggs. With this anticipated lack of confidence in the grade C label, it is expected that many of the consumers who are now buying unclassified eggs will switch to grade A or grade B eggs. It is a well known economic fact that the demand for a product tends to set the price. If there is an increase in the demand for the better grades of eggs, it means

Cattle Swept Under Bridge At Kahrs Farm

By B. B. Ihrig

Over five inches of rain fell in Smithton and vicinity last Monday. Flat Creek and Lake Creek did some damage to crops. At the Raymond Kahrs farm south of Smithton on the new highway, four cows were swept under a bridge just north of his home. The cattle were unable to reach secure ground. After going under the bridge the water spread out into a cornfield and the cattle were rescued without injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Quint went to Hickman Mills last Sunday and returned their small grandson, Steven Mahnken, to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Mahnken. Steven had accompanied his parents here for a visit during Fair Week and remained for a ten day visit with the Quint and B. F. Mahnken families.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Noll and daughter, Cecilia, were visitors in the home of Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Rathert at the beginning of the Fair. They all attended the Fair on Monday and on Tuesday they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reissner in the Bahner neighborhood. Rev. Rathert is pastor of the Pleasant Green Methodist Church. He fills his appointments there on the first and third Sundays of each month.

On Sunday, August 28, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Lamm and Mary Catherine entertained with a dinner honoring several relatives. It was Mrs. Tillie Wagenknecht's 86th birthday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Wagenknecht, who were married August 19th, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wagenknecht, who have returned from Augusta, Ga., Mr. John Schluesing, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Demand, Mr. C. H. Wagenknecht, Mr. and Mrs. K. J. Morris, Mrs. Birdie DeHaven, Mr. and Mrs. Ira DeHaven, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Page, Gene and Cathy, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Wagenknecht.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Woolley visited in Independence over the weekend.

Mrs. Margaret Webb spent Thursday and Friday with her mother, Mrs. Gesina Leutjen and uncle, Mr. Charles Monsees.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Simms, Springfield, visited over the weekend in the homes of Harold Scott and Archie Peoples.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Long, Overland, spent the weekend with John Allen, east of town. The Long's were on their way to Colorado for a two weeks vacation. Another guest of Mr. Allen on Tuesday and at night, was Representative Alfred Oetting, St. Charles County, who also attended the State Fair while here.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Jaeger during Fair Week were cousins of Mr. Jaeger, Mr. and Mrs. Juan Jaeger, St. Charles. Other guests for dinner on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Vemmer and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Edmonson and children, Gerald, Mo. These families also spent some time with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rehmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Sudbrook, Wentzville, spent two days with Mr. and Mrs. George Jaeger.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Renfro and family left Tuesday for their home in Tucson, Ariz. They had been visiting Mrs. Renfro's parents Mr. and Mrs. Ed Walter.

Miss Joann Lamberson was among those present at the family reunion at Chas. Ellison home last Sunday. Callers in the Ellison home Wednesday evening were, Mrs. B. A. Finley and Mrs. Idona Wilborne, Sedalia.

Elroy Lemke and Victor Hoehns, entered flowers from their dahlia gardens last week at the State Fair. Mr. Lemke had 40 entries and won 2 purple, 7 blue, 8 red and 9 white ribbons. Mr. Hoehns had 11 entries and received 5 blue, 4 red and 2 white ribbons.

Fair Ribbons To 4-H's Of Benton County

By Mrs. Jane Van Horn

WARSAW — Approximately 70 Benton County 4-H members participated in exhibits and contests at the Missouri State Fair last week. They come out with a fine record. There were 119 entries from the county in exhibits, including clothing, home furnishings, home service, home grounds, food preservation, poultry and food preparation. They received 73 blue ribbons, 43 red and 3 white ribbons. The County Safety booth put up by Lakeside 4-H Club received a red ribbon. In the tractor 4-H driver's skill contest, Howard Schenewark received a white ribbon. And in the livestock judging Charles Campbell was second high winner of the 13 teams and received a blue ribbon, Harvey Ficken a white ribbon and Harold Lee Johnson a red ribbon. The team as a whole ranked fifth. In clothing judging Leona Franks and Marilyn Bruns received a red ribbon.

In home furnishings judging Jeannie Brockman received a blue ribbon. In food preparation judging Martha Van Horn received a red ribbon. In food preparation judging, Sandra See and Leodora Tea-ford received red ribbons and Judy Singleton a white ribbon.

This year 57 per cent of ribbons received were blue as compared with 50 last year at the State Fair. The percentage of white ribbons was five per cent to 15 per cent last year. Thirty-eight per cent were red ribbons.

Four entrants from Benton County will enter the state contest day on Sept. 24 at Columbia. The entrants will be a boy for grooming, a meat judging team, share-the-fun contest and a demonstration on pasteurizing milk.

European death rates are lower than ever before in spite of hardships of World War II which could have lowered the vitality of some residents.
